MUKDEN ARMY ENTERS SHANHAIKWAN AFTER BIG CLASH, SAYS TOKIO

General Assault Launched By Fengtien Forces Against Chihli-ites Who Are Rushing Many Reinforcements To Cope With Overwhelming Invading Forces; Army Trains Bombed

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 8.—A despatch from Mukden states that the Fengtien troops yesterday evening entered Shanhaikwan. There was heavy fighting, with numerous casualties on both sides.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Mukden, Oct. 8.—"Confidential" reports reaching here raise doubts as to the continuance of the present relations between Marshal Wu Pei-fu and General Feng Yu-hsiang. They state the latter may declare neutrality shortly.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Mukden, Oct. 8.—Replying to the recent diplomatic note regarding air attacks on Peking, Marshal Chang Tso-lin declares his forces must attack Peking because it is the enemy's headquarters. The only way to ensure the safety of the Capital is to remove the military headquarters from it.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, October 8.—There were heavy artillery exchanges at the Shanhaikwan front for 24 hours, after which, at dawn this morning, the Fengtien troops attacked under an accurate barrage, but were repulsed.

At 10 o'clock this morning the positions were virtually unchanged. The guns were still active.

The Government have chartered 15 Chinese steamers, which are concentrating at Taku.

The Government troops are acting on the defensive at Shanhaikwan but a thrust is being prepared from Chentehfu, probably simultaneously with the landing of troops in the region of Chinchow.

Considerable forces have been ordered northward from the Central provinces. It is believed that their destination is Taku.

Tientsin, Oct. 7.—Fighting along the front line in the sector of Shanhaikwan is growing more furious than ever. Shells that are being fired by the Fengtien troops upon the main position of the Chihli troops are fast falling even in the vicinity of the Japanese barracks. A number of Fengtien aeroplanes, taking advantage of dense clouds, made a low flight yesterday afternoon and threw down several bombs, which hit military-trains at Shanhaikwan station. Reinforcements of the Chihli troops are being rushed up to the front to cope with the overwhelming Fengtien forces, which, it is understood, have resorted to their general attack upon the Chihli troops as a result of the reconnaissance in force they carried out a few days ago.

Tokio, Oct. 8.—Count M. Okudaira, Viscount C. Watanabe, Baron T. Fukuhara and Mr. A. Yokoyama, four standing committeemen of the Kenkyukai, the most influential political party in the House of Peers, last night paid a visit to Baron Shidehara, Minister for Foreign Affairs, and reported to him on the decision of the Kenkyukai regarding Japan's attitude vis-a-vis China to the following effect:

"Those members of the Kenkyukai who are interested in the situation of China agree with the Japanese Government on the latter's policy of non-interference with domestic affairs in China, but at the same time sincerely hope that the Imperial Government of Japan will not only see to it that Japan's special rights and interests in Manchuria and Mongolia will be fully protected but also, from the general viewpoint of peace in the Orient, will go a step further in its policy towards China, acting in co-operation with the Powers."

In reply to the foregoing statement, the Minister for Foreign Affairs is alleged to have expressed his sense of agreement.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Oct. 8.—Fighting in the sector of Shanhaikwan is still going on, the Fengtien troops always taking the offensive all along the front-line of the position of the Chihli forces. Though the Fengtien troops, supported by field-guns, made several attempts to break through the line of the Chihli troops, they failed to take the position of the Chihli forces, and retreated to their own position. In the meantime, the man-of-war, Chu Yu, belonging to the Chihli troops, has been despatched to Shanhaikwan from Chinwangtao but has not yet participated in the battle.

MUKDEN-SOVIET PACT PUBLISHED; REVISES ORIGINAL

Period For Return Of C. E. R. Reduced To Sixty Years

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 7.—Rosta publishes the text of the agreement between the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the autonomous Three Eastern Provinces of the Republic of China, the main point of which is reduction of the period for the return of the Chinese Eastern Railway to China to 60 years. Within four months the original contract will be completely revised. It provides for equal representation on the staff of the Railway and otherwise follows the Peking Agreement.

As regards navigation of the Sungari River and the Lower Amur to the sea, the contracting parties agree to take up the question on a basis of equality and reciprocity. The parties agree to redemarcate their boundaries and also to draw up a customs tariff and conclude a commercial treaty.

It provides for equal representation on the staff of the Railway. Otherwise it follows the Peking Agreement.

London, Oct. 7.—It is reported from Riga that M. Karakhan has sent a message to Moscow, relative to the agreement with Marshal Chang Tso-lin, saying that Russia is now master of the situation. Russia, the message says, has delivered the Imperialist Powers a crushing blow,

500 RUSSIANS HERE IN DIRE NEED OF FUNDS

Relief Advisory Committee Makes Appeal For Financial Aid

Unless further financial arrangements are made some 500 Russian refugees in Shanghai soon will be entirely without food, states an announcement sent out yesterday by the Russian Relief Advisory Committee. The notice was signed by Mr. A. E. Lockyer, honorary treasurer, and in addition to containing a financial statement showing the status of the relief fund, reads in part as follows:

"Distress amongst refugees is getting more acute as time goes on and at least 20 persons attend daily at the General Hospital for treatment but in most cases starvation is the primary cause of their sickness. With the winter coming on their suffering is bound to increase and as no solution has as yet been found to the problem of general repatriation, they are still amongst us. We have done all in our power to hasten repatriation and we are still striving but in the meantime we have no other alternative but to try and keep the Soup Kitchen going. Our funds will barely see us over the end of the year. Unless the public with their usual generosity come to our assistance some 500 persons who at present get a daily ration of a chunk of bread and a plate of soup at a cost of only

First Pictures Of Fighting In Sungkiang Area

Lower Left.—This picture shows the appearance of the Fukien troops which is quite different from that of the Chekiang and Kiangsu soldiers in this area. The Fukien soldiers travel "light" and also rapidly when we consider that these men have come overland all the way from Fukien Province to Kiangsu in a comparatively short time.

Middle.—Fukien troops advancing into one of the narrow streets in the section of Sungkiang outside of the city wall. It was here that [illegible] were wounded and The China Press correspondent himself nearly provided a mark for Chekiang bullets as he snapped this picture.

LABOR CONFAB IS OPENED; TURNS DOWN COMMUNIST

Party Rejects Application Of Communists For Affiliation

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 7.—The Labor Party Conference opened today at Queen's Hall. There was unusual interest in the proceedings in anticipation of a pronouncement by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald on the Government crisis.

The Conference was preceded by a breakfast at a West End restaurant, at which were present a number of Cabinet Ministers, the Labor Executive and representative of the Trade Union Congress. Mr. MacDonald did not attend but went straight to the Conference, appearing a quarter of an hour before the opening. The Prime Minister received an ovation from the crowd outside the Hall, and his appearance on the platform was greeted by the singing of the Red Flag and of the International.

London, Oct. 7.—The Labor Party Conference by a card vote overwhelmingly rejected the Communist Party's application for affiliation. The figures were 3,185,000 to 193,000.

The Conference also carried a further recommendation by the Executive that no member of the Communist Party should be eligible for endorsement as a Labor candidate for Parliament or any local authority, by 2,456,000 votes to 654,000.

Finally, the Conference adopted a resolution by 1,804,000 to 1,540,000 votes that no member of the Communist Party should be eligible for membership of the Labor Party.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 7.—In the course of his speech at the opening of the Labor Party Conference, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, recalling the Labor success at the last election "in spite of the campaign of loud-speakers, lobster-tin-cans and other humbug," said that there was a fixed limit today to the possibilities of tricky conspirators and resourceful demagogues.

Pirates Loot S.S. Ninghsin, Get Tls. 100,000 In Sycee Mails And Piece Goods

Quartermaster Killed And Sailor Wounded As 34 Armed Passengers Carry Out Plot On China Coast Steamer

One of the most daring plots of piracy ever committed on the China coast was carried out during the last week-end between Wenchow Bay and Bias Bay, about 35 miles north of Hongkong, according to a telegram received here yesterday by the San Peh Steam Navigation Co., Ltd., agents for the steamer Ningshin, aboard which the piracy was committed.

The text of the telegram, which was sent under date of the 6th from Amoy, reads:

"The Ningshin was looted on October 3 by 34 armed passengers who ordered the vessel to go to Bias Bay. Thirty cases of silver, together with piece goods and other cargo, some mail and passengers' valuables were taken. On October 5, the robbers discharged all their looting and the ship was free to proceed. One quartermaster was killed and one sailor was wounded. The ship arrived here today and is leaving for Foochow this afternoon."

Pirates dressed like passengers, who must have had intelligence of the large quantity of silver which was shipped by a local foreign bank to its Foochow branch, boarded the ship with concealed weapons on October 2 when the ship left here for Foochow with a full load of cargo and the silver consignment, according to statements made by the local office of the San Peh S. N. Co. On October 3, the ship should have been off the Wenchow Bay. More than 200 passengers, including six foreigners, were on board.

The piracy was conducted by armed first and second class passengers led by a military man.

The loot was taken ashore by fishing boats.

The value of the 30 cases of sycee is approximately one hundred thousand taels. The shipment is fully covered by insurance distributed among one dozen firms in Shanghai.

The vessel is expected to arrive in Foochow today.

Early this year, a similar piracy but on a much lesser scale was committed on board a Chinese steamer plying between here and Canton.

Besides the Ningshin, the San Peh are also agents for the steamer Hoong On, which always crossed the Ningshin at a point near Wenchow Bay. On her last voyage, however, Captain Hansen failed to see the sister ship and, immediately upon his arrival here, ordered an investigation,

AMERICAN CLUB TO BE READY FOR OCCUPANCY DEC. 1

All Officers And Committees Re-Elected For Another Term

That the new American Club building on Foochow Road will be ready for occupancy by the first of December this year, was the interesting announcement of the Chairman, Mr. J. Harold Dollar, at the annual meeting of the Club held in the premises on Nanking Road yesterday afternoon.

The meeting was well attended and after presentation of the accounts and the annual report, all of the present officers and members of the committee were re-elected by acclamation. They are as follows: General Committee, President, Mr. J. Harold Dollar, Vice-President, Mr. E. C. Stocker, Hon. Treasurer, Dr. W. T. Findley and the following members of the general committee: Messrs. A. Bassett, V. G. Lyman, Wm. Morris, O. G. Steen, H. A. Wiley and S. Fessenden. In addition to the foregoing the following members of the balloting committee

CANTON DEALERS EXPECT TO CLASH WITH BOLSHEVISTS

Reject Overtures Of Sun To Quit City On Payment Of Two Millions

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Oct. 2.—The inevitable conflict between the merchant class and the Kuomingtang "Bolshevists" is expected in the early part of October, unless the latter yield to the popular demand for government by the people in the next few days. The long-standing issue between Dr. Sun and the merchants was brought to a head on September 28, when six representatives of Canton merchants sent an ultimatum to Generals Fan Shek-shang and Liao Chung-hoi of the Yunnanese mercenaries in Canton, who are the delegates of Dr. Sun for the settlement of the arms question with the merchants.

Those military units which were not favored with a portion of the spoils when Dr. Sun divided the arms and ammunition of the Volunteers are expected to adopt a neutral attitude should a conflict occur between the Volunteers and the "Red Army."

Canton, Oct. 3.—The Canton merchants connected with the principal trade guilds, at an informal meeting on September 30, definitely decided to reject overtures of Dr. Sun Yat-sen's Kuomingtang followers peacefully to evacuate Canton upon payment of $2,000,000.

The new Chief of Police of Canton is said to have hinted to the merchants that, upon the departure of Dr. Sun Yat-sen and his party, it is very likely that the land recently confiscated by the authorities will be restored to the former owners, and, therefore, payment of $2,000,000 to hasten the surrender of the government to the Cantonese people would not be unwise.

Some merchants friendly to Dr. Sun have already subscribed to the $2,000,000 but it is understood that they will not pay their subscriptions until others do so. It appears, however, that a good number of merchants would be glad to contribute to Dr. Sun's expenses were they certain that he would not return.

KIANGSU GUNS COMMAND RAIL; SUNGKIANG IS NOW CUT OFF FROM SHANGHAI

Early Morning Reports Indicate War Situation Near Shanghai Getting Critical; Locomotive Riddled With Bullets; Two Correspondents Cut Off From Base In Shanghai

At an early hour this morning, reports brought into Shanghai by foreigners who encountered great difficulties in getting back to Shanghai from the Sungkiang area were to the effect that communication between Shanghai and Sungkiang is now practically, if not entirely severed near the town of Minsingchiao, located a few miles this side of Sungkiang.

According to the report, the Kiangsu forces have planted a battery of field guns reinforced by machine guns in a position which commands the railroad near Minsingchiao. There has been only one train out of Sungkiang into Shanghai in the last twenty-four hours and the difficulty which this train experienced was shown in numerous bullet holes in the engine cab and frame-work of the locomotive. This train reached Shanghai at 4.40 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Lunghwa sent a train with reinforcements of men and munitions under forced orders toward Sungkiang at 7.30 o'clock last night but extreme measures had to be used to induce the train crew to make the journey. It was reported that the members of the train crew was offered $100 apiece if they got through.

Unless this train was able to get through last night, it appears fairly certain that Sungkiang has been completely surrounded by the combined forces of Kiangsu and Fukien and may by this time be completely in the control of General Sun Chun fang of the southern province.

Two newspaper offices in Shanghai, at least, have evidence that something serious has happened in the Sungkiang area, for neither Mr. Talbot Patrick of The China Press nor Mr. A. P. Finch of the Shanghai Times, who departed together for Sungkiang early yesterday morning to report the war in that area had returned at the time of going to press this morning. It was thought in both offices that Patrick and Finch had possibly reached Sungkiang but had been unable to get out on account of the surrounding of the town by General Sun's men.

A bulletin issued by the Lunghua command last evening stated that following an encircling movement of the Chekiang forces under Chwang Tse-ping, the joint Fukien-Kiangsu forces were routed, while the majority of the men were disarmed. Fighting stopped at Ming Sing Chiao last evening, while Sungkiang is quiet.

Prisoners captured and taken to Lunghua stated that they belonged to the sixth regiment of the second army of General Sun Chuan-fang.

Traffic along the Shanghai-Hangchow Railway between Shanghai and Sungkiang has once more been restored, according to Dr. T. S. K. Loh last night.

In the encircling movement which stemmed the rush, one machine-gun of the Kiangsu army and several boxes of ammunition were captured.

While no change was made in the battle line on the Kiating-Huangtu-Liuho front, there was intermittent firing at all places. The Kiangsu line at Huangtu is about four li from Anting, while the Chekiang forces are seven and half li west of Huangtu. The trenches are about 100 meters apart and both soldieries are entrenched. Rifle fire was heard at Huangtu, Kiating and Liuho yesterday morning. Few causalties have been inflicted.

At Tsingpu, the belligerents are divided by the Peiyukiang Creek. Perfect silence reigns over this sector. It is understood that the fighting men of the Kiangsu Army who terrorised this region during the early part of the war have been transferred to Fenking and Hankow.

Another outbreak of war is expected on the Ningpo front between the forces of Tuli Sun Chuan-fang and General Pan Kuo-kan shortly, according to messages received by Chekiang leaders in Shanghai yesterday. More than 1,000 Fukienese have left Wenchow to take an overland trip towards Ningpo. General Pan, on the other hand, is defiant and before he left here for the Chekiang port early this week, reiterated his resolution to continue the fight.

General Lu Yung-hsiang received the following telegram from Marshal Chang Tso-lin:

"My previous communication have informed you of our success in capturing important strategic points in our attack on Shanhaikwan. I have again received a telegraphic report from Generals Chiang Tung-hsuan and Chang Hsueh-liang (the son of the Mukden warlord) under date of the 7th to say that our right wing had on this day occupied Siaohokow, Kiumenkow and Shihmentsai, cutting the enemy's flank to enter Shanhaikwan. We are within only 40 or 50 li from our objective and have slain a large number of enemy soldiers and captured large quantities of arms and ammunition.

"Our Left Wing engaged the main column of the enemy forces and have occupied the Russian barracks and Yaokiashan, routing the enemy, who abandoned enormous quantities of arms, and has lost his capacity to fight. We captured many prisoners and are continuing our push towards the walls, whose fall is expected momentarily. The enemy either surrenders or turns his back without fighting, according to

CHI'S ALLEGATION OF PLOT TO BURN ARSENAL HERE

Municipal Gazette Explains How Report Was Circulated Here

An explanation of the report current a few days ago that General Ho Feng-lin, Defence Commissioner of Shanghai, was planning to burn the native city of Shanghai in case he was defeated, is given in the Municipal Gazette, issued this morning. The report originated it seems through a message of Mr. Rodney Gilbert, a newspaper correspondent for a Shanghai morning newspaper, stationed in Nanking. According to the Gazette, the American Consul in Nanking, Mr. John K. Davis, sent a telegram to the American Consul-General in Shanghai on September 29 reading as follows:

"Marshal Chi sends a message through Rodney Gilbert that he is informed General Ho has had Shanghai City Magistrate purchase 3,000 cases kerosene and will burn native city if he is defeated. Chi requests Consular Body be informed in order that they may take precautions."

Mr. Cunningham, according to the report, informed the Consular Body that a preliminary investigation had failed to confirm the report but that the matter had been referred to the police authorities for further investigation.

the report. Since our repeated victory, there is much disloyalty in the enemy's own ranks and files. It will be only a matter of few days before we wreck the traitors' infamous den."

The Kuo Wen News Agency reports that 6,000 more Kiangsu troops have been despatched from Nanking to Soochow, following the transfer of the headquarters of the Kiangsu Army from Quinsan to Soochow.

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, October 4.—Marshal Tuan Chi-jui in Tientsin, through his delegates, Mr. Hsu Shih-ying, who is now on a visit here, has given his final advice to General Chen Chiung-ming to the following effect:

"Though the nature of crimes committed by the Chihli faction is indisputable, it is very hard for one individual or two to subjugate and overthrow the faction in question. At this juncture, if you should distinguish between right and wrong and decisively take steps for the lofty cause of the anti-Chihli party, acting in concert with Dr. Sun, I will gladly hold myself responsible for Dr. Sun's faction."

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, October 4.—General Tang Chi-yao of Yunnan has once again wired to Dr. Sun, General Chen Chiung-ming, General Tan Yen-kai and General Chao Heng-ti, pointing out the gravity of the present situation and urging the absolute necessity of stopping any private strife that has arisen from the difference of their political views and of dashing foward to their common goal of righteousness without sticking to trifling matters and by acting in co-operation with each other.

(China Press Correspondence)

Sungkiang, Oct. 4.—We heard firing nearly all night last night, that is I heard it as often as I waked up, and this morning it got worse. There were no cannons in the night, but this morning they were much in evidence, also the rattle of the machine guns were quite plainly heard. Last night the sound seemed to have come from the south west of us, just about the right direction for Shihhutang and I thought that fighting had commenced at bridge 31 or 34, however, I have made inquiries at the two hospitals today and I can find no wounded soldier from those bridges except those two who were wounded in the clash with the spies about whom I wrote several days ago. The chief of police told us this morning that the firing we heard this morning was also coming from 31 bridge, but to my ears as I stood up on the tower of our church, it sounded almost due south, just the direction of Sungjung, which we heard yesterday was in danger.

To corroborate this I found some ten or fifteen wounded in the military hospital in the city whom I was told had been wounded at Sungyung. At the Red Cross Hospital which is established in the Catholic Hospital, I was told that fifteen had been brought there from Sungyung. Four had been wounded so seriously that they had been sent on to Shanghai where they could get more efficient service. There are now eleven wounded at the Red Cross Hospital and about fifty at the Military Hospital, but the most of the latter were wounded at Zoongku near Tsingpu. We heard this afternoon that the Chekiang forces had retired before Shen Chuan-fang's forces at Sungyung.

They say that the latter had two thousand there and there were only five hundred of the Chekiang, so there was nothing for it but to withdraw. As everything is quiet now and no sound of shooting, it looks as though this was true and now Shen's troops seem to be resting until time to strike the next blow. As he has come so contrary to all expectation thus far, we can not imagine what his next move will be. Evidently the preparations at bridge 31 is too much for him and he is making this flanking movement. Still he has the Whangpu between him and Sungkiang and if he is to attack Sungkiang, he will be troubled in getting his forces across. Meanwhile the people are still leaving. A special train took away over a hundred women and children today and more are to go tomorrow. It looks gruesome to walk along the street.

Hardly a shop is open and there is a strange hush over everything. The chief of police went to Shanghai today to see if he could not get some of the leading citizens to come back so that arrangements could be made to hold things together. The men who ought to stay here and keep things in running order were among the first to get away to save their own skins. It is during such times as this that one has a hard time to keep any kind of respect for the Chinese. Some of them realise their short comings, but they are too much in the minority to do much.

One of the poor soldiers at the Red Cross Hospital was shot in the back and the wound was a peculiar one. The bullet struck one of the brass shells that he had in his shoulder strap and carried shell and all into the wound. When it was extracted the bullet was found to be imbedded still in the shell. Though he got a bad wound still the striking of the shell saved his life for the bullet would have surely gone right through his body if it had not struck the shell.

which has destroyed their last chance of obtaining control over the Chinese Eastern railway.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 7.—The following is a translation of the full text of the Soviet-Mukden agreement, which has been duly signed in Mukden between the Soviet delegate and Marshal Chang Tso-lin, as published today by the Rosta News Agency:

Article 1:—re the Chinese Eastern Railway. The Soviet and Fengtien Governments agree to the following decision:

(1) The two countries concerned hereby declare that the Chinese Eastern Railway is the economic organ of communication, pure and simple.

The Governments of the two countries concerned hereby declare that with the exception of all economic equipments under direct control of the Chinese Eastern Railway, all those which are apt to infringe upon the rights of the Republic of China and the local Government such as administration of justice, local military, and police administrations as well as taxes and landed estates shall be controlled by the Chinese authorities.

(2) The term of 80 years stipulated in Article 12 of the agreement concerning the Chinese Eastern Railway entered into on September 8, 1896, is to be reduced to 60 years, and upon the expiration of the above reduced term, the Chinese Government is to take over without indemnity the Railway in question together with all the property attached thereto. It is agreed that the question, whether or not the term of 60 years shall be further curtailed, will be subjected to later deliberation. From the date of signature of this agreement, the Soviet Government recognises China's right to redeem the Chinese Eastern Railway at any time before the expiration of the term specified. In that case, the two countries concerned are to decide upon a fair price for the redemption of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

(3) The Soviet Government agrees that Clause 4 of Article 6 of the Soviet-Chinese agreement concluded in Peking on May 31, 1924 regarding the liabilities of the Chinese Eastern Railway be discussed and decided upon by a committee to be newly organised with representatives of the two parties concerned.

(4) The Governments of the two countries agree that any future question of the Chinese Eastern Railway is settled by the two countries concerned without the interference of a third Power.

(5) The agreement concluded on August 27, 1896, on the administration of the Chinese Eastern Railway is to be completely revised on the basis of the present agreement within four months from the date of its signature, by a select committee representing the two parties concerned. It is agreed that even before the revision of the old agreement, the Government of the two countries maintain their respective rights which do not infringe upon China's sovereign rights.

(6) A committee, consisting of five representatives each of the two parties concerned, to discuss and decide upon the administration of the Chinese Eastern Railway, is to be formed. Of her five committeemen, China is to appoint one President who is authorised to officiate the functions of the former managing-director of the said Railway, while Soviet Russia is to appoint one Vice-President out of her five committeemen, who is to officiate the functions of the former vice-director of the Railway. The quorum is to be fixed at seven and all the resolutions to be passed by the committee in question shall be approved by no less than six members. Both the President and Vice-President shall co-operate together and administer the business of the committee, and all official documents of the Railway shall be signed by the two officials abovementioned. In case either of the above officials is absent, the two countries concerned are to appoint an attorney, on the condition that if the President happens to be Chinese, the Vice-President must be a Russian.

(7) A finance inspection committee, comprising five members, three of whom are Russians and two Chinese, is to be formed, and the chairman of this committee is to be appointed from among the Chinese committeemen.

(8) The board of directors is to appoint one Russian chief and one Chinese vice-chief and one Russian vice-chief, who are to manage the business of the Railway, subject to approval of the Governments of the two countries concerned. The functions and powers are to be decided upon by the board of directors.

(9) Chiefs and vice-chiefs of all departments of the Railway are to be appointed by the board of directors on the condition that in case the chiefs are Russians, the posts of vice-chiefs are to be occupied by Chinese and vice versa.

(10) Employees of each department are to be appointed from among both Russians and Chinese in equal number. Note:—When this principle is to be put into effect, those, who are to be appointed, shall be choiced on the basis of their experience and qualifications in order to administer the business of the Railway as much perfectly as possible.

(11) Matters, with the exception of the valuation and estimates stipulated in Clause 12 of Article 1 of this agreement, which cannot be decided upon by the board of directors, are to be settled fairly and amicably by the Governments of the two countries.

(12) The board of directors is to submit the valuation and estimates of the Railway and property attached thereto after careful investigation and deliberation at a joint-meeting of itself and the finance inspection committee.

(13) The net-proceeds of the Railway is to be taken charge of by the board of directors and cannot be used by the Governments of the two countries pending a final decision to be reached at the above joint-meeting.

(14) board of directors is to revise as soon as possible all the provisions concerning the Chinese Eastern Railway as laid down on December 4, 1896 by the Government of old Russia under the Tsarist-regime, on the basis of the present agreement. The revision should be completed within not later than four months after the formation of the board of directors. In the event of the old provisions being revised, care must be taken so that no obstacle may be created towards the present agreement nor the sovereignty of the Republic of China be infringed upon.

(15) As soon as conditions for the redemption by China of the Chinese Eastern Railway are agreed upon between the two parties concerned or when the Railway falls into the possession of China upon the expiration of the term as stipulated in Clause 2 of Article 1 of the present agreement, the whole of the provisions in the present agreement are to lose their effect.

Article 2:—The Governments of the two countries agree to respect their respective sovereign rights which are based on the principle of mutual equality, and to solve all pending problems concerning the navigation of vessels of both countries on those rivers and lakes which are within the domains of the two countries and which are already known to the public. Detailed rules in connection with this subject shall be stipulated by a committee within two months from the date of signature of the present agreement. All matters relating to passengers and freights on the upper reaches of the Sungali River including Harbin, within the domain of Soviet Russia and also those relating to passengers and freights on the lower reaches of the Amur River or on that part leading to the sea, are to be definitely decided upon by the committee referred to above on the basis of the principle of mutual equality.

Article 3. re frontiers:—The frontiers of the two countries are to be newly examined and settled upon by a committee representing the Governments of the two countries and prior to the settlement of this question, the status quo is to be recognised by both parties concerned.

Article 4. re tariffs and treaty of commerce:—The Governments of the two countries are to form a joint committee which is to decide upon tariffs and a treaty of commerce on the basis of the principle of equality and reciprocity.

Article 5. re propaganda:—The Governments of the two countries promise each other that they will not permit the existence and activity of organs or organisations, objects of which are to disturb the peace and order in their respective domains by some violent and outrageous means and that they will not participate in propaganda of such a nature as to affect the political as well as social organisation of the other party.

Article 6. re committees:—Committees as stipulated in the foregoing clauses are to open their meetings within one month from the date of signature of the present agreement, and to complete their business as soon as possible within six months, but this rule will not be applied to those committees for which terms have been specially fixed in the foregoing clauses.

Article 7:—The present agreement is to take effect from the date of its signature. In testimony whereof the delegates of the two countries have drawn up duplicates in three languages, namely, Russian, Chinese and English and signed them.

Proposal To Appoint Veterinary Surgeon For S. M. C. Fails

The proposal of the Pure Milk Supply Commission here for the appointment of a Municipal Veterinary Surgeon, made several months ago, has been rejected. Correspondence appears in today's Municipal Gazette with reference to this, including letters from Mr. C. Noel Davis, Commissioner of Public Health, and Mr. R. A. P. Hill, Acting Commissioner. Both of these officials, while agreeing with most of the recommendations of the Pure Milk Supply Commission, disagreed with the proposal to appoint a Municipal Veterinary, pointing out that the prevention of cattle plague, the most serious disease which had to be dealt with, did not come within the province of the Health Department, as the disease was not communicable to man. The most dangerous communicable disease was tuberculosis, infection by which was preventable by pasteurising or boiling the milk. Raw milk should never be consumed.

The Acting Commissioner suggested that in view of the spreading infectious diseases by milk-carriers the Health Department be empowered to suspend, examine, and if necessary exclude from dairies any workers coming from houses containing cases of infectious disease. This proposal was amended to make these provisions applicable only to establishments where there was evidence that employees were infection carriers, or where traces could be found of a specific disease, and in this form the recommendation was adopted.

EGYPTIAN PREMIER GOES HOME; HIS OFFER REJECTED

London Publishes White Paper On Negotiations With Zaghlul Pasha

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 7.—Zaghlul Pasha, the Egyptian Premier, left for Paris this morning en route to Egypt.

The Egyptian Premier, interviewed by Reuter, said that he had nothing to say but thanks; but he would not say good-bye but merely au revoir.

In a speech to a crowd of Egyptian students, who bade him an enthusiastic farewell, Zaghlul Pasha said that he had done his best to negotiate and had offered proof of the rights they claimed. His offer had been refused, but "the fault is not ours but theirs."

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 7.—Zaglul Pasha's demands in the recent negotiations, as summarised in a White Paper issued tonight, were the withdrawal of all British forces from Egyptian territory, the withdrawal of financial and judicial advisers, the disappearance of all British control over the Egyptian Government, notably in connection with foreign affairs, the abandonment of the British claim to protect foreigners and minorities in Egypt, and the abandonment of the British claim to participate in the protection of the canal.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, while not abandoning hope of a subsequent agreement, expressed the opinion that the attitude of Zaglul Pasha at present rendered agreement impossible. He declared that no British Government could wholly sacrifice their interests in guarding a vital link of British communications like the canal, and assured Zaglul Pasha that Britain did not intend to attempt direct control over the policy of the Egyptian Government. Mr. Macdonald adhered to his previous statements regarding the Sudan.

Committee Studies Question Of Franco-Russian Relations

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 6.—The Special Committee charged with the study of the question of the resumption of Franco-Russian relations held its first session yesterday.

The Matin understands that the Committee will recommend recognition of the Soviets de jure, without making any previous conditions concerning economic and financial questions the settlement of which will depend on the presence in Moscow of a French envoy.

France, while recognising the Soviets, will by no means renounce satisfactory arrangements on behalf of French interests.

The Committee thinks it possible to naturalise Russian citizens living in France, and not wishing to return to Russia. France, on the other hand, will ask the Soviet to grant an amnesty to Russians willing to return to Russia.

The American Government will be informed of every step in connection with the negotiations.

Working Hours Are Limited By Spinners

London, Oct. 7.—The Federation of Master Cottonspinners at a meeting at Manchester today decided to continue to run mills spinning American cotton 26¼ hours a week. Pressure will be put on the few firms who are exceeding these hours.

movement is again being launched in Kwangtung by friends of General Ngai Pong-ping, a former division commander of the Cantonese army and chief of police in Canton. The program of General Ngai, it is stated, is to organise all Cantonese military units under his command and then to remove all non-Cantonese troops from the province. Dr. Sun Yat-sen is not given a place in the program. General Hsu Ching-chi, of the nominal Cantonese Army in Canton, it is believed, has expressed himself in favor of the movement; but whether or not General Hsu has been acquainted with the full program is not known. General Hsu, while not insistent on his chief's presence in Canton, does not favor his forced departure. The attitude of the other Cantonese armed organisations has not been definitely ascertained.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen's hope of maintaining his position in Canton through a compromise with General Chen has been shattered, it is generally reported, by General Lin Fu, one of General Chen Chiung-ming's lieutenants, who has declared that he intends to overthrow Dr. Sun before talking of unification. General Lin is stated to be preparing to march on Canton.

General Chen Chiung-ming's forces are marching towards Canton. Sheklung, a city along the Canton-Kowloon railroad, was occupied on October 2.

(Reuter's American Service)

Canton, Oct. 7.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen has received a telegram from General Lu Yung-hsiang urging the Generalissimo to join him and Marshal Chang Tso-lin in a protest against Marshal Wu Pei-fu pledging the Customs surplus as security for a new foreign loan.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen is still at Shaokuan, but the rapid changes in officialdom indicate that he is preparing for his final departure from Kwangtung.

There is a persistent rumor, which is not officially denied, that Dr. Sun may leave on a Soviet sloop which is due soon at Whampoa, where the Military Academy and Canton officials will hold a reception in honor of the Soviet Admiral. Street arches have been erected in Canton in honor of the visit. Soviet influence here is very strong.

Bank Is Closed For Having Connections With Lu Yung-hsiang

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Chefoo, Oct. 3.—The closing of the Tsi Tung Industrial Bank has created much consternation in Chinese business circles. It is reported that, while the Bank had been known to be partly owned by Marshal Lu Yung-hsiang, no steps were taken to suppress the organisation until rumors leaked out that the Chefoo office had been transferring funds to Marshal Lu at Shanghai. An armed guard from General Chang Wai-ping's barracks now surrounds the Bank building, on the orders, it is reported, of Marshal Wu Pei-fu, and, temporarily, at least, the Bank is not permitted to transact business.

Labor Confab Is Opened; Turns Down Communist

that no Government had done more to alleviate the lot of victims of unemployment or to solve the housing problem. He praised Mr. Snowden's budget and declared that the next Labor budget would continue the good work. "That," said Mr. MacDonald, "is perhaps the real explanation of our present difficulties (cheers). A second Labor budget would jeopardise the lives of the other two parties."

Mr. MacDonald declared that the work of the Labor delegation at Geneva should give pride to all seeking the security of peace.

A trial must be given to the Dawes plan, the Prime Minister went on, but the whole trade union movement of the world was morally bound to support German trade unions against capitalist attempts to reduce wages and lengthen hours on the plea of reparations payments.

The Prime Minister defended the Anglo-Russian Treaty, declaring that there were interests in the country prepared in the bitterest way to sacrifice every national concern to themselves. If the Treaty came short of a really satisfactory settlement that was because the blunders and escapades of his predecessors still hung like poison-clouds over all the Government's endeavors.

The political situation was now giving no little concern, Mr. MacDonald declared. Dr. Asquith's post-election speech plainly intimating that a Labor Government must eat out of his hand had finally settled Liberal-Labor relations. It was the beginning of an unworthy policy, the latest phase of which demanded a definite stand. A trumped up stunt about the dropping of a certain prosecution gave the wily, petti-fogging lawyer a chance. The country, Mr. MacDonald asserted, wished the Government to continue its work, which could not be interrupted except with grave national disadvantage and which only men could carry on whose authority, in the eyes of the foreigner and of their own people, was respected by Parliament (cheers).

The plan was to force a humiliated Government to go to the country in a fortnight's time, the Prime Minister declared. The Conservatives had a straightforward vote of censure, but the Liberal amendment had been conceived in a spirit of mediaeval crookedness and torture. The Government would not be censured. It would only be insulted.

The committee would on the eve of election publish a report which he knew to be already drawn up, censuring the Government. "By this little manoeuvre we would go down and the fortunes of the Liberal Party would be restored. They mistake their men." (cheers).

"This chicanery will provoke resentment that will make our victories all the more numerous," the Prime Minister continued. "Fresh clean fighting in the constituencies and the clear air will give us strength. The House of Commons is being made independent of partisan tactics."

Mr. MacDonald expressed the hope that the Conference in its deliberations would remember what was at stake. When the time came for it to dissolve, "the thousand men and women gathered here will return to their posts and sleep in their armor until the word is given. The Labor Party will take the field, not to defend itself, but to attack."

Mr. C. T. Cramp, the Industrial General Secretary of the Union of Railwaymen, proposing a resolution (which was adopted unanimously) congratulating Mr. MacDonald in the success of the political organisation of the Labor movement, prophesied that after the next election Labor would be the largest party in the House of Commons (cheers).

Mr. Herbert Smith, President of the Miners' Federation, seconding the resolution, declared that the miners were determined to return the Labor Government, not because they believed in reparations as brought about in the Dawes Report, but because Mr. MacDonald and his friends were going in the right direction to bring about the ultimate aim of reparations and the end of wars forever (cheers).

Medal Is Awarded Bull Of Prince

(Reuter's American Service)

Calgary, Alta., Sept. 6.—King of the Fairies, a shorthorn bull owned by the Prince of Wales, has been awarded the gold medal offered by the British Breeding Association of London for the best bull shown in Western Canada by a Canadian exhibitor. The award was made at the annual Regina stock show.

The animal has won championships at the principal livestock shows. It was born on the Prince's farm in England and was brought to his Alberta ranch as a three year-old. The Prince also was awarded a reserve championship on a red yearling shorthorn bull brought from the Royal Stock Farms in Britain as a calf last year.

Pens of Shropshire and Hampshire sheep entered by the Prince's ranch captured blue ribbons for ewes and rams in the Hampshire class, and championships for ewes in the Shropshire class at the Regina show.

The E. P. Ranch, where the Prince will spend a month's vacation, is about 60 miles from Calgary and covers 6,000 acres. It is stocked with pure bred race horses, Dartmoor ponies, shorthorn cattle, Shropshire and Hampshire sheep.

Extract from the North China Daily News of September 22nd.

Autumn is here, and with her has come a profusion of lovely fashions, which, like the first colourful leaves of Autumn, have descended upon us at an unexpected moment, vividly prophetic of the modes that will prevail in the world of fashion during the winter season. Despite the simplicity of line there is no lack of variety in the fashions of the new season. Fabrics were never so beautiful, trimmings never more exquisitely lovely, nor were details ever more charmingly complete and correct. Godet treatments, scarfs, stoles and capelets are only a few of the details that acquit the new Autumn modes of the slightest suggestion of monotony and lift them far above the fashions of other years in beauty, variety and charm. True to prophecy the sued-finished fabrics are in highest favour for suits, coats, etc. It is a far cry from the heavy, bulky fabrics of yesterday to the softly-clinging woolens of to-day. For street garments brown is a great favourite, ranging from the exquisite russet and copper tones to a rather subdued malay. On the street one sees also quite a few coats in soft mahogany tones. Artichoke and other soft greens are seen, and a revival of gray is suggested by the number of coats appearing in dark shades of taupe or mole. Linings are most important. Satin and crepe linings continue much in vogue and many interesting effects are secured through the use of plaid or striped kasha. Evening wraps are mainly of rich brocades, velvet or satin. Occasionally one sees an evening wrap of crepe satin or even very sheer material. These wraps of lighter weight usually depend on a soft lining of printed velvet for warmth. Oftentimes they are reversible.

The above might well have been written after a visit to our Drapery Department, for it so aptly describes the modes. Why not call and inspect the Autumn Display?

News Brevities

A very pretty wedding was solemnised at the Church of the Sacred Heart on Saturday afternoon, when Miss Anne Agnes Young of Tientsin was married to Mr. Thomas J. Becke of Shanghai. The bride, who was given away by Mr. J. Noodt, wore a white satin dress studded with beads and trimmed with orange blossoms. The bridal bouquet was of white roses and carnations. Mrs. C. Lockerbie acted as matron of honor, wearing a pink satin dress, and the four little flower girls were dressed in white satin and carried bouquets of pink carnations. After the ceremony, an informal reception was held at the bridegroom's home, where the intimate friends of the young couple gathered. Later, a dinner was held at the Y. P. S. Hotel, where Mr. C. J. Johnson, the best man, proposed the toast of the bride, to which the groom suitably responded.

The Ministering Children's League, in sending out invitations to its entertainment to be given out on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 in the Lyceum, has met with a response so cordial as to be almost embarrassing in view of the fact that the seating capacity of the Lyceum is limited. Many former members have returned to town and others have recently joined, so that the committee of arrangements fear that it may be necessary to ask the youngest members, who cannot come without their parent's escort, to be willing to sit on their guardian's lap, and to be sure to have the words "and parent" written on their tickets. Older members will probably have to be asked to come without friends, although it was previously hoped that each member would be able to bring a friend. Final announcements will be made to the schools direct. The committee very much regrets this necessity and hopes that next year all members will be so closely in touch with the League that the full membership will be known and a sufficiently large auditorium may be secured. Undoubtedly, as the aims of the League are better understood, the membership will grow even larger.

An attempt to increase the period of the lease to 20 years was opposed by the Recreation Fund Trustees. It was also brought out in the correspondence that the Trustees are now in course of negotiations for the purchase of further space for recreation for the use of the foreign community on the lines of the present ground.

OPINIONS DIVIDED OVER CHI'S NEXT MOVE IN HUANGTU

Leaves Anting Where Activity Will Slacken During His Absence

BY MILES A. GOLDRICK

Anting, Oct. 6.—The Huangtu sector remains fairly quiet with the exception of occasional artillery firing. Two French 75's were used effectively by the Kiangsu gunners Sunday morning when they scored direct hits on Chekiang supply trains. There has been very little trench fighting during the last few days at this point, the men being busy strengthening the new trenches that were dug after last week's attack. Supplies and fresh troops are still pouring in by the trainload, approximately eight thousand new men arriving during the week.

Three cars in one train Saturday night were occupied by two dismantled six inch naval guns that should fill the very urgent dearth of long range firing in this sector.

The fighting at Kiating still continues due to the fact that each side has a foothold in the town and whoever drops back will have small chance of regaining it. The Chekiang forces at usual are using their hand grenades to good advantage but the Kiangsu men have learned the old World War trick of catching and throwing them back and have inflicted numerous casualties by this method.

The situation from Huangtu to Kiating is very puzzling at present and is a source of much conjecture from both soldiers and civilians. Many claim that General Chi has gauged the enemies' strength through last week's attack and intends to smash through with the eight thousand new troops, while the rest believe that they will be used to merely hold the present position as the Marshal sees that he cannot easily make a successful drive. Of course, if the latter is correct it will be entirely to Lu's advantage as he just wants to hold his own until something is settled in the north. General Chi has left Anting for a short while and probably nothing much will be done in his absence but personally I wouldn't be surprised to see a terrific drive in the Tsingpu sector as that is General Lu's weakest wing. That is where the main part of the new troops have been sent and Dr. Frank Price has already started removing the civilians from that area.

SOME SIDELIGHTS

A dull roar sharply cut by the occasional whine and thud of bullets rises toward the pale, calm moon. A faint, foreign note creeps into the noise of battle, a ringing, mournful wail. On the bank of a twisting stream stands a small temple, its peacefulness in sharp contrast with the shambles of war around it, and inside crouches an old priest, its sole guardian. At each beat of his arm a brass gong rolls out its deep, rolling voice and a slow chant accompanies it. It is a prayer for the dead soldiers who lie almost at the temple door. The priest sinks to the floor as his task is ended, for it has been a long time since the faithful have brought him food.

At headquarters in a nearby town a group of soldiers are laughing boisterously. A swarm of coolies dash by, madly chasing a grunting, squealing pig. Now and then one makes a dive for it and misses, rising a moment later covered with filthy mud. The generals' dinner is causing quite a stir.

In a quiet corner stands a long row of coffins. Some are plain pine and the rest are elaborate with their black and silver lacquer. An ancestral hall has been raided for the better ones. In the lone lantern's fitful gleam stands one open. Alongside lies something that was once a man. A soldier is placing some straw in the coffin for the man's last bed and a group of nervous coolies fidget around. At a sharp command they lift the thing with averted faces and dump it in and hastily clamp the lid on. That soldier has started his journey home.

Down at the railroad track an engine pulls in and is immediately covered from end to end with soldiers. Officers, men and coolies push frantically for standing room. Nothing distinguishes their respective ranks, everyone is talking and laughing like boon companions. It is a curious thing, this Chinese democracy, especially to a foreigner who has seen service with his own army. Suddenly they quiet down, an officer on the platform is shouting angrily. And then comes authority, the official executioner. A tall, grim man with a frightful, bared sword on his shoulder, he stands looking steadily and then a few rapid words like pistol shots snap out. Instantly the train is cleared.

Across a stream is a high, arched bridge of pure white stone. The shallow steps rise from a fetid mud one after the other until they reach the top and there they end—the final one is missing. The moon casts its waning light on the bridge and on one side it is reflected back from each step by a shining pool of blood. Up and up they go, a man's life has ebbed with their ascent, until the top is reached, the dark smears veer sharply to the edge and disappear. China's destiny.

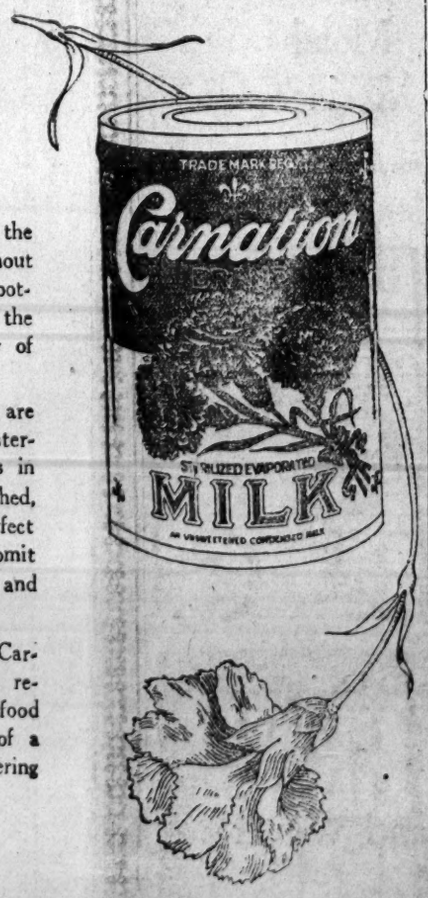
Guarding the Purity of Carnation Milk



Each year, thousands of housewives visit the big Carnation Milk condenseries. Without exception, they are delighted with the spotless surroundings and enthusiastic over the precautions taken to guard the purity of Carnation Milk.

Glass-lined receivers for fresh milk are thoroughly cleaned and scientifically sterilized twice daily. Great vacuum pans in which the milk is evaporated are polished, inside and out until they shine with perfect cleanliness. Even the farmer must submit his milk receptacles for cleansing and sterilizing under Carnation direction.

So great is the purity and richness of Carnation Milk, that leading physicians recommend it without hesitation as a food for infants. You, too, can be sure of a safe, sanitary supply of milk by ordering Carnation.

Police Lose To Sailors In Opening Football Game Here; Fixtures Announced

In the first football game of the season here yesterday the team from the British warship Despatch won from the eleven representing the Police Recreation Club by a score of 3 to 2 on the Police grounds.

The game was closely contested throughout. The sailors started off well, and scored the first goal. The Police tried hard to even up the score in the first half, but failed, the figures standing 1—0 at the interval.

In the second half, however, the Police came back strong, and evened up the score. The Despatch team succeeded in registering a second goal, however, as did also the Police, and the score stood 2—2 until about five minutes before the end of the game, when the sailors made their winning goal.

Turner and Read, both newcomers, scored the goals for the Police. Three new men played for the local team, Turner at center forward, Read at inside right, and Gash at center halfback. All showed up very well, can be considered valuable additions to the Police team, which is expected to be very strong this year.

Boxing Notes

By Harvard

A big night is promised at the Carlton this evening, when two high-class flyweights, Folyano and Alberto, will clash in the main event, which is scheduled for twelve rounds.

These boys have not fought in Shanghai before, though they gave a rope-skipping exhibition at the Carlton last week, and Alberto showed off his muscular development as well. They have a splendid record in the Philippines, however, where both of them have met and defeated the clever featherweight Faustino de Dios, who is well and favorably known here. In addition to this, Alberto has fought Johnny Hill, the featherweight champion here, three times, once to a draw, once winning, and once losing, which says much for him. He twice met Rufe Canion, one of the finest young fighters Shanghai has seen, once going ten rounds to a draw and the other time losing to Rufe in eight rounds. He has also whipped Syd Keenan and Kid Gabo.

Both boys are in splendid condition, and are training hard. They should put up an exhibition worth seeing.

A few sailors are on the program tonight. All of them are boys who appear to be real fighters, and they have been warned, in order to prevent any misunderstanding, that they will be expected to do their level best. This warning seems to be unnecessary with such men as Betts, who claims the Marines' welterweight championship, but the promoters are taking no chances, and are determined to see to it that the crowd gets real bouts.

Betts is the best of the sailors who have showed up here. He has a fair amount of science, and in the matter of experence has the advantage over Nevsky, who he is to meet in the semi-final tonight. The Russian lad has a big opportunity tonight, for if Betts is all he is cracked up to be it will mean a lot to the boy who licks him. The sailor is, it appears, inclined to swap punches, which is all to Nevsky's taste, and if the Russian doesn't run into a kayo at once it should be a splendid scrap.

With regard to the kayo question, however, there are two sides. The sailor is a real welter, and will enter the ring several pounds heavier than Nevsky, who will weigh in at about 139 pounds. This is a marked advantage for Betts, but Nevsky appears to have the better punch of the two. If the Russian lad can put it across it should mean a kayo, but it is very possible that Betts may succeed in dropping Nevsky. It should be a real scrap, with the odds on Betts, but with all sorts of a future for Nevsky if he wins out and fulfills some of the bright expectations which have been projected for him here.

The Nevsky-Betts go will be preceded by another eight-round bout, between two Britishers, Turner and Bland. Turner seems to be the better of the two. Bland was originally scheduled to fight Nevsky, but it was decided to give the Russian lad a real chance with bigger game, so the program was changed. Bland is a boy with some experience, and has shown up pretty well in training here. His record includes a ten-round victory on points over Cartledge, the boy who is matched with Matty Smith at Hongkong next month.

Turner was runner-up in the last Hongkong Tournament. He looks pretty good, and did some exhibition sparing with Nevsky at the Carlton last Thursday before the regular fights, once flooring the Russian with a right cross. He appears to have a wallop, more so than Bland.

Both boys appear to be inclined to slug, however, and it should be an interesting battle.

The Opera

Last night the Italian Grand Opera Company presented "La Boheme" at the Olympic Theater before a good audience. The piece was well sung and quite up to the standard which this talented company has set for itself during the all too brief a season they are spending in Shanghai. Tonight "Madame Butterfly" will be performed. This opera, which is regarded by some as one of the best works of Puccini, has certainly proved a prime favorite since it was first produced, and a particularly strong cast has been selected for this evening's performance. It includes:—

Chi-cho-san, Mlle. Ambroso; Suzuki (Cho-cho-san's servant), Carlo Milocchi; Lt. F. B. Pinkerton, Emanuele Giletta; Kate Pinkerton, Mlle. Poliastri; Sharpless, Ficlefo Scamuzzi; Goro (a marriage broker), Barontini; Prince Yamadori and The Bonze, Concetto Paterna.

DEBATE OPENS ON IRISH BILL IN HOUSE OF LORDS

James Craig Raps Government For Bringing Treaty Against Ulster

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 7.—Sir James Craig, opening the North Irish Parliament today, said that the present British Government had brought in a new treaty against the wishes of Ulster. If this was to continue, there would be no safety for Ulster in the future. If a boundary commission was persisted in, and its finding was acceptable to Ulster, well and good, but if its decision was unacceptable by the North Irish Parliament, he would not hesitate to decline the responsibility of carrying on the Government. He would be no party to the lowering of the Union Jack and the hoisting of a white flag or any hypocritical gesture to the South.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 7.—In the House of Lords today a large muster attended the debate on the Irish Bill.

Viscount Grey delivered the principal speech, in which he declared that a definite understanding was given Ulster in 1920 that no question of territory could be negotiated without Ulster's consent. He would prefer to face the Free State's demand for a Republic than see the understanding with Ulster broken.

Viscount Grey expressed the opinion that passage of the amendment limiting the powers of the commission would raise the whole question of the position of the House of Lords, and he therefore advised definite acceptance of the Bill or rejection of the whole idea of having a commission.

The House adjourned till tomorrow.

Changsha Prints A Directory For Foreign Community

(China Press Correspondence)

Changsha, Oct. 1.—Changsha has had published this year for the first time a Directory of the American and European community which has been privately printed and distributed by the Yale Mission. The Customs, Consular and Post Office staffs number 19 and there are 13 foreign firms listed with a staff of 54 foreigners, all inclusive of wives.

There are 17 missions and educational institutions listed with a total foreign staff of 145, also inclusive of wives. This gives Changsha a grand total of 218 American and European residents and thus makes the port one of the larger inland centers of residence for foreigners in China.

The community feels sincere regret at the approaching departure of the British Consul and Mrs. Lancelot Giles who have been transferred from Changsha after a long residence. The staff of the American Consulate has been enlarged by the arrival of Mr. John Carter Vincent from America.

A. B. ROSENFELD NAMED DEFENDANT IN TLS. 1,604 CLAIM

Another suit arising out of the construction of a house for Mr. Julius Rosenfeld by his parents, on the occasion of his marriage, was commenced yesterday morning in the United States Court for China, before Judge Milton D. Purdy, when Messrs. William Jacks and Co. sued Mr. A. B. Rosenfeld to recover the sum of Tls. 1,604.80 for materials supplied and delivered and work and labor done, the materials consisting of tiles put into the house in question.

The defence was a denial of indebtedness.

Mr. Tycho Wing appeared for the plaintiffs and Mr. F. J. Schuhl for the defendant.

Mr. Schuhl at the outset stated in order to shorten the proceedings the defence would admit that the amount claimed was correct, but the defendant contended that he was not the person liable for the sum, and that the wrong person had been sued.

Mr. Albert J. Pike, manager of the plaintiff firm, deposed to supplying the tiles and doing the work of installing them. He received the business through Mr. Lafuente, who was the architect of the house, but had always looked to Mr. Rosenfeld for payment. Witness admitted having received a certificate for payment, drawn on Mrs. Rosenfeld, but that had been returned to him by the bank.

Mr. Lafuente stated that all his dealings with the plaintiff firm were as agent for the defendant. In answer to Mr. Schuhl, witness denied that, as contractor, he had been paid the full amount for building the house, but admitted that the plans and specifications for the house were drawn up in the name of Mrs. Rosenfeld.

Replying to the Judge witness said his fees as architect had been paid to him by Mr. Rosenfeld by means of checks signed by him.

This concluded the case for the plaintiff, whereupon Mr. Schuhl moved for a non-suit to be entered on the ground that the wrong party was being sued, a motion which was denied by the Court.

The case was then adjourned in order that witnesses for the defence might be called.

were also re-elected: Messrs. George W. Brush, Dr. N. L. Downs, J. Eichwald, W. I. Eisler, F. F. Fairman, W. J. Cande, C. P. Holcomb, H. B. Longfellow, E. L. McCloskey, F. W. McIntyre and W. R. Rice.

A special vote of thanks was also given to the following members of the building committee: Messrs. F. W. Sutterle, E. C. Stocker, E. H. Staber, A. O. Fisher, A. Q. Adamson, F. O. Cudlipp, E. L. McCloskey and T. B. Brown.

In Mr. Dollar's remarks at the opening of the meeting he stated that debentures paid for on August 31 of this year amounted to Mex. $1,007,546.65 and that the demand had been so great that the issue was heavily oversubscribed making it necessary to cut down the amounts alotted against subscriptions. The Chairman also noted that a further amount of $30,000 had been written off to depreciation of furniture and fixtures, which with about $8,000 expended under this heading leaves the account standing at $45,000. Much of the equipment can be either used in the new premises or disposed of to advantage. The income of the club had shown a slight decrease of about $3,000 due to the business depression and there had also been an increase in operating expenses of about $5,000, due largely to increase in rental cost on present premises. Salaries had been decreased by $3,000, light and fuel by $1,200, printing and stationery by about $1,000, uniforms for servants by over $400 and repairs by over $700. The above savings would have shown an actual decrease in operating expenses had it not been for the increase in rental cost.

The library of the Club had been increased by the addition of 439 new books and the records showed that nearly 10,000 books had been loaned from the library during the year. A new barber shop was a feature which also received attention in the Chairman's report.

The membership of the club during the year had been increased to the extent of 50 resident members and 21 non-resident. Forty-three members resigned during the period and 8 were dropped. Five members, Messrs. J. Dinsmore, W. H. Lowe, J. H. McMichael, E. H. Murray and J. Petit, died during the year. A special effort will be made to increase the membership in view of the added accommodations provided by the new building.

In referring to the new club premises, the Chairman said that the new building woold be a very fine club house and a credit to Shanghai. Mr. R. A. Curry was the architect.

In concluding his remarks the Chairman expressed his appreciation for the services rendered by the various members of the Committees and of Mr. O. H. Smith, Secretary.

Serious Stabbing Affair; Man Is Cut In Abdomen

A young Chinese was seriously stabbed in the abdomen in a fight in the Soong Ka Loong alleyway, off Chekiang Road, Tuesday evening. The trouble appears to have started in a small tea-shop in the alley, a number of coolies having begun to fight there and going outside to finish the matter. Chinese Constable 126, who was on duty on the corner of Chekiang Road and Avenue Edward VII, was informed of the fight, but when he appeared the crowd which had gathered scattered, leaving the injured man, Zung Ts-pan, lying on the ground. The constable promptly had him taken to the Shantung Road Hospital by ricsha, where the doctor reported that the stab wound had perforated the intestines. The injury was very serious, and general peritonitis was the least that could be expected.

No arrests have yet been ma Inquiries are proceeding.

"Health Better than it has been for Years."

Our portrait is of Mrs. WOODROW, of 56, Robinson Road, Tooting, London, England, whose husband writes:

"My wife has suffered very badly for the past four or five years with Piles, being unable to sleep at night or get any relief during the day. She tried several advertised remedies none of which did her any good. Some three weeks ago she thought she would try 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' and before she had taken half a bottle she was better, and by the time she had finished the second bottle she was quite cured. She can now sleep well, eat well, and get about her work, and her general health is better than it has been for years." In a further letter some eight months later Mr. Woodrow writes: "I am pleased to say that since my wife's cure of Piles in September, 1918, there has been no sign of return of the trouble."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. CHINESE CHARGED WITH ASSAULT ON BRITISHER HERE

Try To Take Safe Back When Foreigner Fails To Pay For It

A Britisher, Mr. E. R. Hinton, was the complainant in the Mixed Court yesterday against twelve Chinese charged with assault and wilful damage, before Mr. Martin, British Assessor, and Magistrate Loh.

The complainant, who has an office on Kiukiang Road, it appears purchased a safe some days ago for $38. The safe was delivered, and on October 2 Tsai Nee-yoong called at the office for his money, but failed to get it. He called five times for the money, it appears, and finally, on Tuesday last, went in with several other men and demanded payment. Failing to receive it, they tried to take the safe away by force, Hinton charges.

The foreigner, it is alleged, caught hold of Tsai, struck him, and tried to force him out of the office. There was a struggle, it appears, and a number of window-panes were broken, though no one appears to have been hurt.

In Court yesterday Assessor Martin asked the complainant when he intended to pay for the safe he had bought, and Hinton said it would be settled for the coming Saturday. The Court bound the twelve men over to keep the peace, but warned the complainant that he did not want a case like this before him again. If purchases were made and credit not arranged for payment must be made on demand. The defendants had called four or five times for their money and had been put off to see a comprador who was not there.

Chinese Charged With Embezzlement Of $1,545 Here

A Chinese was charged in the Mixed Court yesterday with the embezzlement of $1,545 from his employer. He was arrested Tuesday afternoon on a warrant issued by Wong Pau-sz, the complainant, by whom he was employed as an accountant. The accused man, Wong Zeu-poo, had absconded in company with a coolie foreman, with moneys collected for the company.

The accused pleaded guilty in court yesterday and said that he could repay the money in a week if given the opportunity. He was a relative of the complainant.

The Court remanded the defendant two weeks to give him an opportunity to repay the money. In the meantime, he may be released on $2,000 cash or shop security.

3 Arrested For Highway Robbery Of Japanese Lady

In connection with the highway robbery on Ward Road Monday evening in which a Japanese lady, Mrs. Toyosaki, was the victim, three men were taken into custody by the Police here the following day, and appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday for trial.

The first man arrested, Pih Hai-zung, was taken into custody on Seward Road Tuesday afternoon by Chinese Detective Tuh Tsung. Upon being searched he was found to have in his possession a fully loaded 25-caliber automatic pistol, also property belonging to Mrs. Toyosaki, consisting of a black leather handbag, some mark and rouble notes, keys, etc. The man said that the pistol and handbag had been given him by another man shortly before his arrest, and on the way back to the station in an auto, accompanied by Sub-Inspector McDermott and the Chinese detective, pointed out two others. Seeing the auto stop, the men ran, but the foreign detective overtook one of them after a short sprint, while a Chinese police sergeant opportunely appeared from a nearby alleyway and seized the other. Yang Pong-yi and Toong Ching-wo were the two arrested.

The three accused appeared in Court yesterday before Assessor Whitamore and Magistrate Li. Sub-Inspector McDermott, outlining the case, said that the statements of the men were very contradictory, and asked for a remand. The accused were accordingly remanded until Saturday when they will come before the Japanese Assessor.

SUIT BROUGHT FOR BREACH OF CONTRACT HERE

Britisher Sues Chinese For Tls. 16,000 In Mixed Court

The case in which Albert C. Davis, a Britisher, is suing Yu Loo-tang for Tls. 16,000 for alleged breach of contract, was continued in the Mixed Court yesterday before Mr. Martin, British Assessor, and Magistrate Zau. Mr. Lewis is appearing for the plaintiff, who is a business man of considerable experience, and Mr. Davies for the defendant, an American-educated Chinese.

The case is in connection with an agreement to form a company, the Chinese to put in the money and the Britisher his knowledge and business experience. The plaintiff was starting the import of ricsha tires, and had already corresponded with a British firm on the matter, it appears. Being short of capital, however, he had entered into a contract with the Chinese for formation of a company, but the latter had not lived up to his agreement.

In Court yesterday Alfred Ross, a local Britisher, said that he had been present at several interviews between plaintiff and defendant. He had seen the plaintiff show certain papers to the defendant, and heard him speak of his bankruptcy in Penang.

Mr. Davies, opening the case for the defence yesterday, said that Mr. Yu absolutely denied the plaintiff's having informed him, prior to the signing of the contract, that he was an undischarged bankrupt. The defendant was then put on the stand, and testified that he had never been shown any bankruptcy papers by the plaintiff, nor spoken to on the matter of bankruptcy until he was told of this by a third party. The sample tire he received from the plaintiff he had sent to Harbin immediately after the signing of the contract. He had learned that Fan, the man who had introduced him to the plaintiff, was himself getting something out of the money he was to put up. This had made him suspicious, and when a Mr. Haynes showed him a report from the Mercantile Bank of India regarding the defendant's bankruptcy he had decided not to carry on business with him.

The case was adjourned for a further hearing.

HUSBAND'S INDIGESTION WIFE'S ANAEMIA

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Again Prove Their Value As A Family Remedy.

The right way to build up a weak stomach is through the blood. Anaemia is proverty of blood and requires tonic treatment. There is nothing remarkable, therefore, in the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Julian R. Lewis found restoration in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the blood and nerve tonic of long-established international reputation.

Mr. Lewis, who is in the employ of Messrs. Mackwoods Ltd., Colombo, Ceylon, states:—"I was a martyr to indigestion. Those who have been similarly situated know the suffering that entails; violent stomach pains, especially after eating; dizziness, insufficient sleep, headaches, and a general lowering of vitality.

"I suffered in this way for some time, deriving only temporary relief from various medicines and prescriptions. It was through the urging of a friend that I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Then almost from the first improvement was noticeable. I hardly dared hope that this would be more than temporary, but am thankful that it proved permanent. I now enjoy my meals and keep in good health.

"After my cure my wife, who suffered from anaemia, resolved to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, being much impressed by their wonderful effects in my own case. She found them equally beneficial and gained both in weight and general health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are obtainable from chemists everywhere, or post free, $1.50 per bottle, $8 for 6 bottles, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

Forged Bank Of Communications Notes Uttered

Chinese Gets Three Year Imprisonment For Offense

The Bank of Communications was the complainant in the Mixed Court yesterday against Peh Chin-yung, accused of uttering counterfeit Bank of Communications notes. The case was heard before Assessor Martin and Magistrate Loh.

Two counterfeit $5 notes on the bank mentioned were found on the accused, who was arrested through information from an exchange shop. Peh had used a bad note to pay a gambling debt. Upon trying to change the money at an exchange shop it was discovered to be false, and the money was traced back to Peh. When arrested, the accused said he had got the money from a man named Waung in Chapei, and received $1 as his share for exchanging the notes. He had uttered two notes, he said.

The printing on the notes taken by the police was quite good, and closely resembled that on the genuine Bank of Communications notes, though the paper used was thicker.

In Court yesterday Detective-Sergeant Andrews outlined the case. The accused was found guilty, and sentenced to three years's imprisonment. The counterfeit notes were ordered confiscated.

AUTO BUS SERVICE IN SHANGHAI DUE TO START TODAY

First Line Runs Between Bubbling Well And The Bund

Shanghai's new auto bus service will start this morning, with a line running from Bubbling Well to the Bund. The first bus is due to leave the intersection of Bubbling Well Road and Avenue Haig at 7:30, and they will run at intervals of eight or ten minutes.

The China General Omnibus Company, which is running this enterprise, has obtained a number of large and roomy cars, which were brought out a few months ago in parts and put together here. The Company has both double-deckers and other cars, with first and second class compartments. The route to be opened today is No. IX, and will consist of five sections. The rate is five cents silver per section, but a through ticket for the whole trip is twenty cents.

This is a welcome addition to our transportation facilities, and is expected to help decidedly in the reducing of the present street car congestion, particularly in the rush hours. Several lines are to be started by the Company, of which Route IX, beginning today, is the first.

Anti-Japanese Protest Aimed At Wu Pei-fu

The Shanghai organisation of the Citizens' Defence League Against Japanese Diplomacy has sent out a circular protesting against the proposed recognition by Wu Pei-fu of the noted Twenty-One Demands. The appeal is addressed to various newspapers, public bodies, and the Minister of Foreign Affairs in Peking, and is in essence as follows:

According to newspaper reports, Wu Pei-fu is about to accept the Twenty-One Demands of the Japanese Government in exchange for certain rights. Recently Wu engaged a certain Japanese as his adviser.

In the face of this Chinese who wish to save their country must not remain silent. We hope that the people will maintain a strict watch on Wu's activities, and will make their protest felt.

German Loan Is Considered By French Bankers

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 7.—French bankers considered yesterday the question of subscription to the German loan provided by the Dawes plan, and will now proceed to London.

According to the papers, the French share of the loan will be £3,000,000. The Matin says that one of the questions to be discussed in London is whether bonds subscribed in France will be marketable in England. French bankers have been instructed to be very firm on this point.

Hayes Arrives With Many Passengers; Sails This Morning

The DoMar Liner Pres. Hayes docked at the Dollar Pai Lien Chien Wharf shortly after 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, and brought a heavy cargo for discharge at Shanghai.

The ship has a full passenger list, including many tourists bound for different destinations in a trip around the world. Several of these stop over in Shanghai until the sailing of the Adams on Nov. 7, in the meantime touring various parts adjacent to this City.

Among the Shanghai residents returning from visits to America are Mr. and Mrs. Roland S. Haskell and child, Mr. Haskell being the well known attorney associated with the firm of Haskell and Moss. Mrs. Mark L. Moody and child returned after a visit of several months with relatives in California. Mr. Fred E. Vincent returned to Shanghai after a holiday in America. Many well known missionaries returned to their labors in the Orient after various periods of furlough in America. These include Dr. and Mrs. S. H. Liljestrand and family of Foochow; Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Manley and family; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Munsen and family, connected with Y. M. C A. work in North China.

Among passengers destined for Manila are Mrs. H. H. Harrison and 3 children returning after a trip round-the-world on previous Dollar steamers.

A large party of prominent oil men destined to the Burmah fields are aboard for Singapore.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Curtis Guise and son will debark at Colombo for transfer to their missionary station in India.

There is also a large contingent trip round-the-world tourists remaining on the ship going through with the Pres. Hayes for debarkation at various ports in the Mediterranean.

Mr. C. W. Cornelius, formerly Asst. Purser, is now in charge of the Purser's Office, while Mr. E. Gruby, well known to the regular trans-Pacific traveler, is officiating as Chief Steward.

The Hayes was shifted to the Standard Oil Wharf yesterday morning and will continue her voyage at 7 a.m Friday.

Argentine Flier Again Postpones Flight From Here

Major Zanni, the Argentine round-the-world flier, has again postponed his departure from Shanghai, adverse weather conditions still being reported from Japan, the aviator's next stop.

The high and dangerous winds over the seas near Japan have held up Major Zanni several days here. Yesterday the Japanese Consulate-General in Shanghai, from which the South American flier has been receiving reports on meteorological conditions, again advised of bad weather which would make the trip extremely perilous. The aviator therefore postponed his flight for another day.

The weather report for today predicts rough weather again over southern Japan, on account of a typhoon advancing northeast. It is possible that this will delay the flier again. Major Zanni is chafing under his unintentional stay here, however, and is anxious to get away, so he may try a flight this morning in spite of weather conditions.

Abundance Of Gold In America Seen As Menace

Bank Declares Stream Going Into The Country Has Upset World Credit; Warns Against Inflation

The gold that poured into the United States during and since the World War, in the opinion of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, has unbalanced the world's credit organism and has built up a surplus here that holds a possible menace for us, while it has created a shortage elsewhere that holds serious possibilities to others.

"The truth of the matter is," says the bank in a discussion of the influx of the precious metal, "the gold which we imported has poured in upon us so fast that it has given us an excessive banking strength far beyond our immediate domestic needs. We now have the power to support a credit expansion that is far greater than any banking system ever boasted. An excess of credit is a temptation to expansion, and expansion that is not controlled leads to inflation.

"The consequence of this steady accumulation has been to increase the country's total so far that the gold within its borders is now equivalent to half of the world's monetary supply of the metal. In other words, all the countries of the world together have no more gold than is now possessed within the United States, and their supply is so thinly scattered that practically all of them, having departed from the gold standard ten years ago, have failed to return to it.

CREDIT EASE HAS DANGERS

"With so much gold drawn to our shores from the old-world nations, the American people have felt, in a national sense, a large measure of pride in the mounting strength given by its ownership. It is very often heard that America has at last placed itself securely on the world's financial throne. Imported gold, together with the other forces at our command that were developed by the war, has indeed enlarged our control in international affairs. But there is another side to the picture.

"To many people the statement may sound very strange that a surplus of gold reserve holds a possible menace for us. They have been taught that gold is wealth, and that its possession represents power. Their study of history has shown them that those nations which had the most gold have always proven financially the strongest. Their recollection of 1920 is that America's industrial expansion was turned into deflation then because the absence of a gold surplus forbade further credit extensions. Therefore they may find it hard to undrstand why, at the height of America's strength, warnings should now be offered concerning an abundance of gold.

"Credit ease has it dangers just the same as credit strain, and the danger that is before us—though it is by no means an immediate one—lies in the possibility of gold inflation. With every addition to the country's gold, when the metal finds its way into the banking reserves the country's credit structure is increased. Gold seeks occupation wherever it is lodged, so that now a problem that is faced is how to direct the flow of credit made available by this gold, making it at the same time productive, liquid and secure.

"Too much available credit in the United States finds its opposite in not enough available credit abroad: our unwieldly accumulation has helped to drain foreign nations of financial responsibility, impair their solvency, and injure their ability to pay what they own in the markets of the world. Even though it has sent us much of its gold, and shipped large quantities of goods here, Europe is tremendously in our debt, and even now, six years after the close of the war, Great Britain alone, among the large nations, is paying interest on that part of the interallied debt for which it is obligated. The other debtor nations are not undertaking remittances either for interest or principal; indeed, were they to do that, and were all the European promises to pay that are now considered to have a doubtful character to become good, the effect would be widen further the gold stream flowing into this country.

"Looking ahead, then, this nation has, in the matter of its credit relations, a threefold problem: first how to utilize the gold it now possesses, without having it disrupt its finance and business, second, how to free itself from that part of the gold it does not require or wish to keep; and third, how to equalize the gold flow in order that the world's exchanges may again become normal. All this sounds like a lesson in abstract economics, of a kind that college instructors like to give their students. But the problems involved, confusing and strange as they are, go much deeper, and have a far more direct bearing on our future national prosperity than mere abstract lessons. They are related to every phase of our business life, and vitally affect the relations of our agriculture, industry, trade and finance, and on their solution will rest in large measure the position that is occupied by the United States in time to come.

"If we go draining the outside world of gold, and if our financial power continues to manifest itself in the piling up of metal reserves, fundamental changes must occur in our business relations, both national and international. Each nation in Europe, it is true, carries on its internal commerce without gold, and has done so for ten years. Paper supplies the mediums of exchange and the tokens of credit. But paper of fluctuating or doubtful value fails to provide adequate means for settling the balances of international trade, and the flow of that trade is seriously checked. If it were possible to find something equally acceptable with gold as an international medium of exchange, this condition would soon be altered. But gold continues to be the single universally accepted medium by which nations balance their credit and commercial transactions, and it is clear that in foreign trade at least, this metal is the ultimate medium that is locked for to rectify the balances between particular countries.

"So far as freeing the nation from a part of the surplus gold is concerned, numerous solutions have been offered; none, however, has yet been sufficiently practical to adopt on any large scale. There has been the suggestion that further gold imports be forbidden; that a part of what we now have be locked away and entombed"; that renewed efforts be made to force gold more than before into hand-to-hand circulation. Objections to these suggestions present themselves at once. There is another suggestion that the gold be made a basis for external credits and loans, and that it be used to assist in a general return to the gold standard. It is that this last suggestion that offers the widest and most interesting possibilities, and it is along the lines of foreign loans that future financing on a large scale would seem inevitable."

France Getting Ready For Algerian Development

France has a new plan for the development of Algeria. It is to be executed during the next five years, and will require the expenditure of 430,125,000 francs. It may be divided into three parts: irrigation, colonization, and education.

With regard to irrigation, it should be observed that it must necessarily take the first place in any project for the better exploitation of Algeria. The country is almost exclusively agricultural, and the climate often renders the efforts of the cultivators abortive. The effects of long rainless periods have, in recent years, been too frequently felt.

WOULD CONSERVE WATER

Any system which will permit the conservation of water and its proper distribution will tend to stabilize and assure the continuity of production. No less a sum than 82,000,000 francs is to be devoted to this purpose. Next year 8,600,000 francs are to be allotted to this end, and each of the following four years 18,500,000 francs are to be provided.

On the successful carrying out of this program the future of Algeria may depend and it is not surprising that so much importance is attached to the hydraulic equipment of the country. The organisation on a large scale of the production of the cotton plant and the agricultural improvement of the Cheliff Plain are among the essential factors of the economic prosperity of Algeria and of the financial recovery of the metropolitan country.

M. Theodore Steeg, the Governor of Algeria, has been described as the Governor of the Water Supply and the title will not be unmerited if he succeeds in having the plans now drawn up fulfilled. The greatest interest is now being taken in the new push of Algeria and it would be difficult to exaggerate the growth of the colonizing interest now to be noted in France, which has not hitherto been remarkable in this respect.

ALGERIA GRATIFIED

In Algeria the news has been received with pleasure and is taken as a fresh proof of the attachment of the country to the great colony of Northern Africa. M. Steeg proved to the French authorities that the re-establishment of France would be forwarded by the co-operation of the metropolitan and colonial energies. The deficit of the French budget can only be made up if the deficit in national production is also made up. Hence the desire to produce more in the colonies in order to enable France, as an empire, to be more self-sufficient.

With regard to the development of railways, there are no new lines proposed in the present program. The program rather concerns itself with the completion of the works adumbrated in 1907. This with call for an expenditure of 54,000,000 francs. In addition, the railways which are in employ require repairs which will call for another 75,000,000 francs. M. Steeg explains that the postponement of new projects is not an abandonment and there are numerous reasons for prudence. He foresees the possibility of automobiles being substituted in many cases for carburants now under study respond to the hopes that have been raised, there will be something of a revolution in traction. In all the new countries transportation by road is being favored rather than transportation by rail. In Algeria at the present time there are no fewer than 12,000 automobiles engaged in commerce, which, in the conditions, is a notable figure. This is why the present project is that 45,000,000 francs shall be spent on the amelioration of the roads in Algeria during the next five years.

COLONIZATION FOSTERED

For colonisation in the more restricted sense of the word 52,000,000 francs are allocated. New centers are to be established and credits are to be alloted to agriculture. Moreover, beside helping cultivators of the soil, attention is being paid to the growth of the population. The population can only be increased if colonisation is facilitated and it is pointed out that the laborious activity which is best adapted to Northern Africa.

It is pleasant to note that education has been included, for the mere material progress is insufficient. A sum of over 62,000,000 francs is allotted for the improvement of education, while 36,000,000 francs are to go to elementary instruction 19,000,000 francs to superior instruction and more than 7,000,000 francs to secondary education. It is characteristic of France that great stress is laid upon this part of the program.

It has been found necessary to impose 28,000,000 francs of new taxes in Algeria. The money will be raised by means of an all-round 10 percent increase on direct taxes and indirect taxes which apply to articles of luxury. Railway fares have been slightly raised in order to reduce the deficit in the working of railways. Algeria in short, is making meritorious efforts which it is certain will be rewarded.

Swedish Countess Tells Her Experiences As A Factory Girl In Chicago

Niece Of King Of Sweden Addresses Members Of Tokio Women's Club

Tokio, Sept. 24.—The story of her experience as a factory girl last July in Chicago, was told to an audience of more than 100 women by Countess Elsa Bernadotte, niece of King Gustaf V. of Sweden, yesterday afternoon at the first meeting this fall of the Tokio Women's Club at the Nitobe House. Her address was preceded by a talk by Miss Ethel Stevenson of London on different phases of Y. W. C. A. work in all parts of the world. The two speakers were introduced by Mrs. B. W. Fleisher, president of the Club, and the meeting was opened by Mrs. Katherine W. Eddy, Chairman of the Extension Committee under whose direction the program was arranged.

In opening the meeting, Mrs. Eddy suggested as the motto for the Extension Committee and the Club as a whole the words "Let Brotherhood Prevail," and the program yesterday was in keeping with such a spirit. Miss Stevenson, who is accompanying Countess Bernadotte in the interests of the executive board of the International Committee of the Young Women's Christian Association on a world tour, pointed out how the organisation is helping to bring about world brotherhood. She told numerous stores illustrating how the Y. W. C. A. had brought about understanding between girls and women of all nations, even among those whose countries were enemies.

Then the keynote of the unusual experience of Countess Bernadotte was the desire to bring peple of all classes closer together. It was the desire to see what "the other side" felt that made her take up for a short time the life of factory girl, that she might be better fitted to serve humanity.

"I had always wanted to work for somebody else," she said, in the beginning of the narrative which she told with naive simplicity and a beauty of expression, but I had never had the chance. Sweden is so small I knew I could never go to work without being recognized. But I thought to myself, 'the United States is so large, it is like a great sea; surely I can lose myself in it for a time.' Alas, I found out it was not so large after all.

DECIDES TO GO TO WORK

"But at any rate, I found myself last July in Chicago with a fortnight before me for which no plans had been made. "This is my chance" I said and I forthwith decided I would go to work, unknown to my friends. So I moved to a club house which was really too elegant for a factory girl, but I was in big hurry so took what I could find. Then I found out the names of factories where I might find something to do.

"I next bought a cheap cotton dress and a hat. I bought it in the basement of a big department store. It was on sale too—$1.25. Then, armed with a guide book and a map of Chicago I started out in my quest. It was a very good guide book, and I found all the factories, but no work.

"The first time I applied to a foreman I said, 'I want a job.' He was very kind, but there was no work there. It was a slack time. I went from one factory to another, but it was always the same story. Sometimes there was work, but I had no experience. 'What can you do?' they would say, 'Where did you work before?' Always, always it was the same story."

Countess Bernadotte told of her search which lasted four days and which took her up and down the streets of Chicago, from one factory to another. At length one Saturday afternoon she went to a factory and saw a workman, a kind old fellow. She asked him if there might be something there and he told her to come back before seven o'clock the next Monday morning and he would see if he could help her out. Very early, then, Monday morning she appeared and found him waiting for her. He took her to the foreman, who shook his head and said there was nothing.

FINALLY FINDS WORK

"But I was desperate," said the Countess, "my fortnight was almost up! 'I must have work,' I told him, 'I will do anything, it does not matter.' So he told me to go with him and he would give me work. My work was very simple, and I soon learned how to do it. I stood by a machine and recorded the numbers called out to me by a man who ran hides through the machine which measured them. I numbered each hide as it came out, and put it aside. It was not heavy except when the hides were thick and hard to handle.

"When the noon hour came all the people got out their lunches, but I had not thought to bring one so I went to a small restaurant across the street. I had never eaten in such a place but the food was good and I got all I wanted. The next day I took my lunch. I wrapped it in a newspaper, because all the other people wrapped theirs in newspapers. Everybody was kind and helped each other out.

"At first I was nervous for fear they could tell that I was not a working girl, but as I was a foreigner they probably thought if my ways were different it was because of that. Soon I was on friendly terms with all the people and forgot to be afraid. In one way I was disappointed, and that was because there were so few girls working there. Before the war, I was told, only men were employed there. Now some of the women who worked there during the war were retained and a few others taken on. I wanted to find out about working girls particularly, but this was the only job I could get. As it was, I found out a great many things and my experience was worth the while."

IS DISCOVERED BY NEWSPAPERS

She told about the discovery of her whereabouts by the newspapers, and how she tried to keep it quiet but failed. The first day after her picture and name had appeared with her story in a paper she went to work as usual, wondering how her factory friends would take it.

"I thought maybe they would feel stiff around me," she said, "but no. They were more friendly than ever. Three of the girls asked me to go to an amusement park with them and I went. We went down the chutes and everything and I had a fine time. When they left me they kissed me. I had to rub my mouth, fearing they had left a great deal of rouge on my lips."

In concluding her story, the Countess said that the experience was not undertaken for the novelty, and that she had shunned the publicity that had seemed inevitable. But she accomplished her real purpose that of getting on a common footing with the people whom she desires to help, feeling their feelings, doing their ings, doing their work, getting their viewpoint.

"Now when I talk to a factory girl she will not feel aloof from me, for I can say to her, 'I, too, have been a factory girl.'"

DEATH

BURIAL:—Funeral services will be held for the late Dr. A. P. Parker at 4.30, Thursday, the 9th inst., at the Pah Sian Jau Cemetary, French Concession. 70759 O 9

Is The War Going To Drag Out All Winter?

ACTUAL fighting in the Shanghai area has now been in progress for more than a month and although the lines of General Lu Yung-hsiang have been pressed nearer to the borders of the foreign settlements the fighting in this section of China apparently is no nearer over than it was after the first few days. Shanghai is now in a state of actual siege, the distance from the borders of the foreign settlements to the rear of General Lu's lines not being more than a dozen to twenty miles in any direction. Entrance and exit from the city by sea is of course unhindered, but communication with the hinterland has stopped entirely.

Just how long is this to continue, is the question on everybody's mind and that the question is a serious one to answer goes without saying. That General Lu's forces have been depleted greatly in the last few weeks is known and admitted. That he is hard pressed for munitions and money is also evident, but on the other hand every mile he retreats, the fewer men he needs. What results he has been able to obtain from the enforced bond issue of the last few days is not known, but if further money is needed General Lu and his associate General Ho Feng-lin will demand another month's rent and another million dollars and so on. As long as the officials in the Shanghai area can levy upon the wealth of Shanghai they will do just that and it is altogether possible that a condition here approaching that which has been in existence at Canton for some time may come to pass. Shanghai is now paying the price of civil war and she may be forced to pay and pay until this wealthy district is milked to the dryness of other parts of China which have experienced continuous fighting for several years.

In the clubs and hotels and in the native tea houses and gathering places the talk is of bad business and increased stringency in the money market. Foreign commerce is being whittled down daily with the stoppage of trade with the interior. New enterprises have been abandoned and many industrial enterprises in the interior and those in the Settlements dependent upon supplies from the interior are feeling the pinch. Just where it is to end no one can say.

An official of the Kiangsu or Chihli side of the struggle recently quoted in the columns of The China Press said that the time may come when General Lu's forces may be pressed so near to the borders of the Foreign Settlements that the Kiangsu guns may be within striking distance of this city. They are already within sounding distance for anyone who has sufficient courage to visit the outskirts of the city. The intimation in the interview of the Northern official referred to above is that when the time arrives that he hints at, that it will then be opportune for the foreigners to change their neutrality position to one of friendly mediation. Just what the answer of the Powers to this suggestion will be is not known, but it is certain that the Powers will not move unless the crisis is imminent and even then only upon the strongest possible urging on the part of the Chinese.

This war is strictly a Chinese affair and of no interest to foreigners unless their lives and properties are affected, but when the big guns are within striking distance of foreign lives and interests it will then become the foreigners affair and their reaction will be watched with great interest. But the chief suffering and hardship is being experienced by the Chinese, all classes of Chinese from the coolies up the scale. Down in Canton the Chinese merchants finally had to decide that the war was their affair and get into it. They put their fortunes into a volunteer corps and although the situation in Canton is still too muddled for understanding at this distance, there is no question of the fact that the merchants are making themselves felt by all parties to the internal disorder.

As we see it the Chinese merchants in the Shanghai area are faced by two very definite propositions. They may stand aloof from their positions of personal safety inside the foreign areas and permit the war take its course, even to the extent of fighting around here all winter and patiently see their trade and properties ruined which is exactly what may happen. Or on the other hand they have the alternative of interesting themselves most actively in the fight and thus hastening the end. They can bring pressure to bear on one side or the other or both and try to bring about an armistice or they can dump their fortunes into the war to the support of one side or the other and get it over with. A Chinese correspondent recently sent a letter to The China Press stating that were there no foreign areas in China that Chinese merchants and men of wealth would not be able to escape the consequences of the civil wars and would be forced to put their resources into the mill and thus there might be some kind of a definite decision one way or the other. As we see it now the Chinese merchants here are not going to be able to escape even with the foreign concessions. They have got to pay the bills one way or the other and they might as well realise it now as later.

THE CORNELL-IN-CHINA MOVEMENT

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Sir:—I learn with great pleasure from your today's issue that Dr. Edward H. Hume has been inaugurated as the first president of Yale-in-Changsha, and I wish to take this opportunity to inform your readers that there will be in the near future a "Cornell-in-China" enterprise at Nanking University, to be sponsored by the Cornell-in-China Club, which came into existence at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, April 23, 1922, with thirty-five charter members. Membership in the club is composed of American and Chinese students, graduates, and members, of the faculty. Including honorary members, the club now has a membership of approximately 100.

Frequent meetings have been held since its organisation, combining business and social features. Some of the speakers have been President Livingston Farrand of Cornell University, Pres. Leighton Stuart of Peking University, Dean Liberty Hyde Bailey, Dean A. R. Mann, Arthur Rugh of Shanghai, the Hon. Fan Yuen-lin and Dr. J. L. Williams, vice-president of Nanking Union University. During his stay in Ithaca, Dr. J. L. Williams gave a comprehensive account of conditions at Nanking University where the Club intended to direct its enterprise, which has been given the official approval of the Board of Trustees of Cornell University.

Dean Liberty Hyde Bailey of Cornell University, who is in favor of this project, declared that an organised university extension enterprise for China, under competent and well supported auspices, should produce results of both immediate and lasting value. It would necessarily headquarter at one place or institution; but if the enterprise had China for its field and were not held within arbitrary limits, it would gradually grow into great proportions and be a mighty force for good. An able and devoted director would naturally have the management in China. The work would move in full cooperation with the Chinese people and with the other educational enterprises now established in that country. It would reach the people in terms of their daily lives and yet not be limited in its hope and outlook. . . . "I can see no forward-looking enterprise that holds more promise."

In a similar spirit, Dean A. R. Mann of the same institution wrote in the "Cornell Daily Sun" that "Cornell University is well represented at Nanking University, and excellent reports have come regarding the work of its former students who are located here, such persons as John Henry Reisner, Dean of the College of Agriculture and Forestry of Nanking University, J. Lossing Buck, Chih Au Chien, and several others. . . . Thus Cornell already has a number of ties which link it to Nanking University, and its influence in that institution has been direct and very much worth-while, and with the inauguration of the Cornell-in-China project in connection with Nanking, is in a position to become a factor in the educational development of the Chinese nation."

It seems fitting that Cornell, one of the leading American universities in the training of China's future leaders, should have resolved in carrying out such a project. At this particular time, the relations between Cornell and China are especially close, owing to the ministry of former President Schurman, as the United States ambassador to China. Furthermore, the first Chinese student to graduate from Cornell University, Sao-Ke Sze, is now serving as the Chinese ambassador to the United States, and a strong Cornell alumni organisation is fast growing up in China. So although there has been little time as yet for the Cornell-in-China Club to accomplish a great deal, the way is well prepared for future service and achievement.

A CORNELLIAN.

Tame Foxes, Wild Humans On Adirondack Trails

Could a Rip Van Winkle of the Adirondacks and North Woods awaken today, after a half century's sleep, he would be much more startled than his Catskills prototype by the changes in the wilderness that he knew, says the New York Times.

Aside from the ravages of lumbermen and devastation of forest fires, which have stripped the mountains of nearly all their big trees, leaving great patches of granite bare, he would be most bewildered to see his hardly discernible trails turned into macadam highways along which are speeding uncouth machines bearing a restless multitude, while near the shores of the loveliest lakes and streams there had sprung up towns, hamlets and caravansaries, and the lone angler had given place to little groups of queerly-clad beings traveling over great green clearings and stopping now and then to hit "a silly little ball."

The Adirondacks in very deed have become a great Summer resort and pleasure ground. Two things only remain unchanged, the eternal beauty of mountain, lake and floating cloud, and the spicy, invigorating air. But one wonders how many of the tens of thousands of persons whom Summer sees in this region note or enjoy the chief gifts it has to bestow.

Lake Placid, once a lovely jewel in the almost inaccessible heart of the mountains, has fairly lost its identity to its namesake, the little city-like resort, with its broad, paved main street lined with parked automobiles; its traffic police, town hall, shops of all kinds, clubs, hotels and lodging houses. Along its thoroughfares and in its passing motor cars you see the same types that you meet on upper Broadway or Fifth Avenue, on the Atlantic City Boardwalk, at Palm Beach or Miami. The groups of golf-players might be duplicated any day on the Westchester or New Jersey links, or even in Van Cortlandt Park.

ON THE BROAD HIGHWAY

Take only one of the highways now used to enter the heart of the Adirondacks, that from Westport, on Lake Champlain, via Elizabethtown. Along a roadway made broad and easy for the most hardened sinners as well as the tired and the invalid, all day and nearly all night hurry motor cars of all makes from Rolls-Royce to flivver, bearing pleasure-seekers or vacationists, meeting a similar procession of cars speeding outward, carrying people sated with pleasure, or vacationists many of whose faces look more tired than those of their kind going in. Large motor stages also are carrying their human burdens.

The liveried chauffeurs of the luxurious cars are speeding to reach some hotel before dinner or bed time, their travelers casting only languid glances at the flitting scenery along the route. The vacationists are also crowding on all the speed their machines permit, for these often bear the additional load of a camping outfit, tent blankets, fishing tackle, cooking utensils and hampers of canned foods. If the time is near mid-day or nightfall, many will be seen to slacken and scan the roadside for a camping place.

Here and there the sites are placarded, some to rent, others marked by the State authorities as free. Into these spaces an occasional wayfarer turns and begins to unpack. Sometimes several cars will turn into the same spot, the parties all strangers to one another and as aloof to one another in their nearness as groups on a Coney Island beach, or in a city apartment house.

The Adirondack roadside also reminds one of the nearby holiday resorts of the cities. One would infer that the favorite American drink is tea, from the frequency of "tea house" on cottages of the natives. Little rough-planked wayside booths display bottles of colored drinks and ice cream signs, and in some places there is keen competition in booths marked "Balsam pillows for sale." To increase the illusion of nearness to the metropolis real estate signs also appear, offering sites for camps and bungalows, or clubs. Houses, too, hang out the words, "Rooms to let," or "Dinners served." One notes that the glaring signs of certain motor cars and brands of gasoline still disfigure picturesque outlooks.

Within a few years new signboards have appeared calling attention to the fox farms which have been established to keep up with the demands of the fad for Summer furs. One sign insistently repeats, "Make no mistake: see the Alaska silver foxes at Lake Placid." These, however, are show animals, taken from their breeding farm near Lake Champlain.

WHERE FOXES ARE TAMED

But near Wilmington Notch there is a farm where black and silver and cross foxes are raised and wayfarers who pause in their journey may see these wild creatures becoming tamed and reared in a way not unlike pigs. An enclosure of an acre or two in extent has been surrounded by a high wire fence, which has been carried down three feet into the ground to counteract attempts to burrow out, and this enclosure, in what looks like a curious effort to teach wild animals the ways of civilisation, has been laid out into streets at right angles, and little bungalow "burrows" have been built for the foxes; a bit of yard for each family, fenced in, and a small table in each enclosure strikingly like some of the tables at the ice cream and drink dispensaries along the highway.

On some of the tables full grown foxes are sitting or lying, while young foxes play about below, for all the world like kittens. Women and girl visitors go into raptures over these "cute" little snappy-eyed fellows and would like to bear them off, as they would newlyhatched chickens at Eastertide, probably to languish and die.

"What is the table for?" The keeper says the food for the mother fox is put upon it to prevent the cubs from getting it away from her. At this season the foxes are shedding their hair and present a very ragged appearance, so much so that the Summer girl who has called, perhaps to pick out a fox for her next neckpiece, leaves with a poor idea of the rich garment the animal will don in the proper season.

CHICKENS NEAR BUT SAFE

In this farm are about one hundred foxes, and, tantalisingly near, is a chicken farm on which more than seven hundred snow-white Leghorns, broiler size, are picking over the greensward, safe from everything except marauding hawks, which swoop down from sky and tree-top at every chance. Are the foxes fed upon these fancy broilers? Well, not directly. The chickens go to Lake Placid hotels and meat shops, which return the heads, legs and entrails in big garbage cans to the farm, and that is all of the chicken that is served on the fox's dinner table. He may also crunch a food similar to dog biscuit.

In a ravine below the fox farm murmur the waters of the north branch of the Au Sable River. Behind rises the great mass of Mount Whiteface, with a drifting bit of fleecy cloud almost always over its summit. It looks like a peaceful spot for camping out along the road, and some travelers have turned aside and put up their tents or shelters. After all fresco suppers and smokes and talks around the campfires they see the cloud wisps over Whiteface darken and drop lower, now hiding the summit. The mountain draws a thick blanket down about itself, as if to sleep; darkness deepens and the campers decide to turn in. Now and then one may turn the spotlight of his automobile into his tent to give light for disrobing, careless of the fact that the light makes a startling movie picture for the belated tourists still passing on the highway.

Later comes a warning rumble or a flash more blinding than that of the headlights of the passing automobiles; in a few moments Whiteface has launched out of its obscurity one of its sudden Summer thunderstorms. Lightnings flash, thunders boom and reecho through the Notch and deluges of rain keep up all night.

How fare the campers? One may see them next morning as the storm clouds drift away spreading out wet clothing and blankets, trying to find a bit of dry wood for a fire, or starting up their little oil stoves. Some groups and their belongings call to mind pictures of refugees in the Near East. Clothes are donned in the same semi-public manner in which they were doffed the night before and preparations to move on are under way. Here is a tent that has blown down upon the luggage and hampers of some anglers while they were away trying to catch a trout for breakfast from hopelessly overfished pools. In another place a man is shaving before a little mirror hooked upon the back of his motor car, with washbasin and toilet articles on the gasoline tank.

Foxes tamed and eating from tables; humans running free and wild—Rip Van Winkle would rub his eyes in wonder at all this, but it is an everyday affair now in his aforetime mountain wilderness.

We Want You To Know

When your hired radiator is out of order, don't call in a contractor to repair it, but ring up the Electricity Department—We repair it free of cost. When your radiator plug gets hot, change it at once—There is only one part of the heating installation that should get hot, and that is the heating element. Don't shut your radiator cord in the door—it will probably damage it and cause trouble later on. Remember that kettles, irons, and any heating and cooking apparatus may be used on the heating circuit—Your iron that is costing you 6 cents per hour on your lighting circuit will only cost one-and-a-half cents on the heating circuit.

A Crystal Test For Einstein

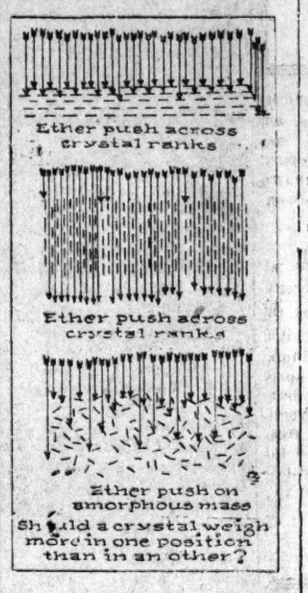
BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

The National Museum in Washington possesses what is said to be the largest topaz in the world. It is a crystal over five inches in greatest diameter and weighs about 48 ounces, avoirdupois. Science is now king, and claims, for its experiments, the jewels that formerly went into royal crowns. Lent to the Bureau of Standards lately, the great topaz was used in what, it has been said, was an attempt to test the truth of Einstein's assertion that the ether, which for so many years has been a faithful slave of the lamp, for science, is a myth. There is no ether, says Einstein, and what you thought were effects caused by it are due only to the crookedness of space. Of course he doesn't use those words, but that is as near as ordinary minds get to what it means.

Now, it has been affirmed that the experiment with the huge topaz crystal proved that Einstein was right. I doubt if the officials of the Bureau of Standards really made that assertion. I think it more likely that they still hold the question open though the result of the experiment was such as to suggest that Einstein MIGHT BE RIGHT.

It is said that the experiment is to be tried with other crystals, and that if similar results are obtained with them Einstein's abolition of the ether will be vindicated. Well, then, let us see what the nature of the experiment is. It is an experiment in weighing, made with an apparatus of almost unbelievable delicacy and with a skill of manipulation nearly as incredible. It is sufficient to say that with this apparatus a difference of temperature of a THOUSANDTH OF A DEGREE between the two arms of the balance would produce an error of a hundred-millionth part in the weighing, and such an error would be regarded by the experimenters as "enormous."

But what has the weight of a crystal to do with Einstein's theory? For answer, consider that weight is produced by the earth's gravitation, and it has been supposed that gravitation itself is caused by streams of ether particles pushing against the atmos of the bodies. Now, in a



Ether push across crystal ranks

Should a crystal weigh more in one position than in an other?

crystal the atoms are arranged in regular order, while in amorphous, or uncrystalized, bodies they lie "every which way."

The difference has been illustrated thus: Take a barrel of nails; it may represent an amorphous body, because the nails, standing for atoms, are placed helter-skelter, pointing in all directions. Now magnetise the nails and shake them up until they arrange themselves so that all point the same way, and you will have a representation of a crystal.

Such being the case, it may be supposed that the particles of ether, whose bombardment, or push, causes the apparent attraction of gravitation, would encounter more resistance in passing through a crystal in one direction than in another, and that the weight of the crystal would vary according as its ranks of atoms were presented sidewise or lengthwise to the ether stream.

If the theory is true, evidently the ether would find more resistance, and therefore produce greater gravitational effect, or weight, when its push was across the lines of atoms than when it was parallel with them.

In the Washington experiment the weight of the topaz was exactly the same, as far as the exceedingly delicate weighing apparatus could detect in all positions of the crystal; whence the conclusion that Einstein was right in declaring that no ether exists.

But the proof is not by any means a decisive one, for it is based on an unproved assumption, viz. that the ether if it exists, does act in the manner supposed, to produce the weight of bodies. However, the experiment in itself is a striking example of the achievements of up-to-date research of the advancement of science.

Pajama Suits Replace Negligee Frocks in Wardrobes of Many City Women

Will some psychologist please step forward and tell us why it is that a pretty woman never seems so unutterably feminine as when she is wearing a pair of really mannish pajamas? Little feet in high-heeled mules or slippers seem so helplessly small when they peep out from the end of straight, shapless trouser legs. And hands take on proportions to delight the soul of a mid-Victorian novelist when they show themselves at the end of straight masculine pajama sleeves.

All this is quite amusing—even pretty—when the pajama is mannish. When it is actually a man's pajama the piquancy is apt to turn to grotesquerie. Shoulders sag, sleeves and trousers are too long and hips too scant.

A French fashion writer speaks of the feminine pajama as "an amusing fantasy that, in the intimacy of the home, often takes the place of the 'robe d'interieur'." The most renowned of French designers turn their attention to the designing of these trifling garments. Philippe et Gaston show one of white satin trousers worn with black satin jacket trimmed at neck and around the lower edge with white fur.

The sketch shows a pair of American-designed pajamas of black and white dotted silk bound in red and fastened with large pearl buttons. They are worn with red mules or slippers.

The woman who lives in apartment or hotel usually finds more use for the pajama suits as a substitute for the usual negligee frock than the woman who lives upstairs and down in a suburban or small town house. Pajamas are comfortable only when one enjoys a measure of security. You don't even mind drinking afternoon tea in them so long as you are a safe distance from the street door, and with friends who have ceased to think of pajamas as barely respectable, or smacking too strongly of strong-mindedness.

MY BEST CHICKEN RECIPES

Chicken Pie

Have the chicken prepared as for fricassee. Put in a kettle—without liver, heart, etc.—cover with boiling water and cook gently for about two hours. (The liver, etc., should be cooked separately and used for sandwich filling or some other dish calling for chicken giblets.) Have ready five or six potatoes, pared and diced cut into cubes with French potato cutter. Add to the chicken and cook for twenty minutes more, or until the potatoes are tender. Now add salt, pepper, a little chopped parsley and two tablespoons of flour mixed smooth with a little cold water, and boil three minutes more, stirring to keep smooth. Have ready a large baking dish lined with good pie dough. Pour chicken and potato mixture into it, cover with crust, brushing with a little milk to glaze. Bake for about twenty minutes, making sure that lower crust is done. If you like the lower crust may be lightly cooked before the chicken is put in the dish. The dish is greatly improved if after the chicken has been cooked the bones and most of the skin are removed. The meat should be left in as large pieces as possible.

In the Fireless

An old-time Southern colored cook adapted her own favorite method of cooking chicken to the fireless cooker in this manner: Grease a frying pan with bacon or drippings, butter if you prefer. Fry a cut-up onion or two in the grease and when done remove from the pan. Take care not to burn. Have large fireless cooker dish with two cups of boiling water at the side, and throw the onions in thus. A nice tender chicken should be ready cut up and well washed and dried. Dredge thoroughly each piece with flour and fry quickly each piece to a rich brown, laying the pieces when done on a plate or platter at side of stove. When all the pieces are done, add boiling water to the frying pan. Place chicken in fireless pan and pour over the boiling liquor from the frying pan. Have ready hot radiators and set in the fireless cooker for six or seven hours. Add salt and pepper just before serving.

Hangchow Leper Mission Celebrates Its Jubilee

(China Press Correspondence)

Hangchow, Sept. 30.—Last week I told you about the graduation of young China. This week it is our privileg to tell you of the celebration of the Jubilee of the Leper Mission on September 30 at their lovely home at Song Moh-dzang.

On Sunday, the 28th, there was a special service of thanksgiving when several of the lepers thanked God for what the Mission had done for them personally, and what it had been able to do in China, India, Korea, and other countries in the name of the Lord Jesus during these 50 years. They thanked God for Mr. and Mrs. Bailey's long service for the lepers and prayed that the sunset days of Mr. Bailey's life might be full of peace and happiness till he joined his dear wife in "Bright Mansions" above. It was a very bright service and all those present felt it good to be there. The hospital foreign staff was well represented as most of them were there.

On Tuesday, the Jubilee day, Dr. and Mrs. Main were photographed with the lepers, then commenced a very interesting service at 3 o'clock by the singing of a hymn and opening prayer by evangelist Lin Siu-yuan who did much to lead the lepers to Christ while he was a Hospital Cathechist. He had to give up work because of his health. Dr. Main gave a short account of his work amongst the lepers in Hangchow these last 43 years, and told them how he met Miss Pim in 1890 in Edinburgh who was the means of his getting a small sum of money from the Leper Mission that enabled him to build in the city the first Leper Refuge; and how the work had grown, and what a blessing the lepers had been through their continued and earnest prayers to all the missions in the city. He told the congregation, which was quite a large one and included most of the missionaries in the city, how much he had learned from the lepers and what a help they had been to him spiritually, and how touched he was by their giving $50 to send to Mr. Bailey of the Leper Mission as a thanksgiving Jubilee gift. They also gave him a Chinese five-color flag with a silver pendant, engraved with the character "love" and a letter in Chinese to accompany it. The following is a rough translation of the letter that goes with the presents:

"Leper Asylum, Hangchow.
September 30th, 1924.

"Our most honorable Bailey,

"Hoping that you are well and happy by the secret protection of the God of the Trinity in your own country.

"We, lepers, both male and female, all feel most grateful to you and Mrs. Bailey (who has now gone to her reward) for what you have done, toiling and suffering for us, those 50 years. You are really following the example of our Saviour who loved everybody and entirely forgot Himself. We all are thinking of your great love, which we never forget even for a moment of time. We are deformed people, no strength to repay your kindness; and the only thing we can do is to kneel down before our Heavenly Father and ask Him to bless you.

"We send you now fifty Mexican dollars, a small sum; may it be a little help to you for your good work for our Lord.

"We beg you often to pray for us.

"Your most grateful deformed people,

"All of us."

Pastor Liu, of the C. I. M. Bible Training School, and Pastor Chow, of our own Mission, delivered helpful addresses.

One of the women lepers, Miss Tsang Dze-en, who wrote a nice congratulation hymn for the occasion, which was sung by the women lepers, delivered a wonderful address telling how she was brought to the Refuge and how she was converted, and later on consecrated, and how she had overcome the awful feeling of being a leper through her prayer life. The disease in her has been arrested for some years. She spoke in the power of the Spirit. It was very touching and inspiring and brought tears to not a few eyes.

At the end of the meeting two of the leper men gave a very interesting and funny dialogue in keeping with the occasion, bringing in quite amusing references to the 50 years, punning on Dr. and Mrs. Main's names, and Mr. Bailey's, too. It was quite clever and very much enjoyed by the audience. The lepers were presented with a whole pig, weighing about 50 catties, which meant almost a catty to each—they are very fond of pork, so the present was much appreciated. They also got a substantial packet of cakes and sweetmeats which they very much enjoy. They get so few little tit-bits in their segregated life, poor creatures. After the benediction, the guests, foreign and Chinse, a hundred and more, were entertained to tea by Mrs. Main, who had the making of all the arrangements along with faithful Dr. Wang, the doctor in charge of the lepers. They were both very glad when all was well finished and everybody had gone thanking God for what they had seen and heard.
